Traffic Deaths Top Mark

CHICAGO (AP)—Traffic accidents across the nation during the Memorial Day holiday weekend took a record toll of 601 lives, compared with 560 in the nonholiday period of similar length two weeks ago. The count for the four-day holiday that ended at midnight Tuesday was the highest ever for a 92-hour Memorial Day period, but was well below pre-holiday estimates.

The toll compared with the previous high for the holiday—542 during a three-day weekend in 1958, in the most recent four-day observance of Memorial Day. In 1963, traffic fatalities totaled 525.

The Associated Press, for comparative purposes, made a survey of highway deaths in the nation during a comparable 100-hour, nonholiday weekend of May 12-16. The toll was 501.

The National Safety Council last night estimated that the toll for this year would range from 650 to 750. A council spokesman said the figure was a "terrific change between now and the end of this holiday. We're going to come in considerably below our own estimate."

Rain and stormy weather in many parts of the nation reduced highway travel and apparently contributed to the lower toll.

Traffic fatalities hit record highs last year on Memorial Day, Independence Day, Labor Day and Thanksgiving Day. However, the number of deaths during the Christmas and New Year celebration was the lowest since 1946.

The lowest number of fatalities in traffic accidents for 1959 for Memorial Day was 193 in 1956.

John Leinen Heads State Office Here

Appointment of John F. Leinen as manager of the Idaho Department of Employment in Twin Falls was announced Wednesday.

Mr. Leinen has served as acting manager of the local office since the death of Ronald C. Jan. 31. He had been employed as an assistant manager under Mr. C. Jan. 1967.

The announcement was made by H. Fred Garrett, executive director of the Department of Employment in Boise. The appointment becomes effective Thursday.

Mr. Leinen was born Feb. 9, 1917, in Logan, Utah. He was graduated from Pocatello High School in 1934 and later studied at William and Mary University, Williamsburg, Va.

He and his wife, Eleanor, have two children, Mrs. Donald (Patricia) Grubb, Pocatello, and a daughter, a junior at Twin Falls High School.

Mr. Leinen is active in community affairs through his membership in the Idaho State Chamber of Commerce. He is a past president of the Twin Falls Exalted Rulers Club, BPOE 1183.

A paper ceremony was ripped from a bronze plaque with a treacherous climax. Normally, solemn children stood quiet, too young to understand the meaning of the memorial, but impelled by their parents' solemnity.

An unpredictable sun broke through a layer of chilly clouds for a moment as the dedication was dedicated solely to the memory of Vietnam.

Soviet Warships Raising Threat Of Confrontation

By GAVEN HUDGINS
The advance Soviet warships began sailing through the Bosporus today, raising the threat of a naval confrontation with the British and Americans in the Middle East crisis, Turkish reports said.

Naval sources in Istanbul said the advance Soviet warships began sailing through the Bosporus today, raising the threat of a naval confrontation with the British and Americans in the Middle East crisis, Turkish reports said.

The Turkish navy command said the Soviet government reported it will send 10 warships.

In all, through Turkey's strait in the Marmarara, where the powerful U.S. 6th Fleet and British ships are deployed.

One source said that even if these ships join a Soviet fleet in one of a dozen ships, the naval balance would remain strongly in favor of the United States. The Soviet fleet, which has been shadowing the 6th Fleet, includes submarines, jet-powered destroyers and missile cruisers.

In other developments: Syria, which has charged that Israel touched off the current crisis, ignored the new Jordanian-Egyptian defense alliance and issued virulent propaganda attacks against King Hussein of Jordan.

Israel announced that troops had left Baghdad, the capital, to return to the Jordanian border. Egypt to face an Israeli build-up on the border. Baghdad radio said other troops would leave soon to join other Iraqi soldiers in Syria.

Turkey already mobilized, announced the extension of the 47-hour work week to a possible 60-hour week. It is to help make up for a manpower shortage.

The Jordanian Parliament in Amman, the capital, adopted a resolution calling the Egyptian defense pact as a violation of the Arab League's resolution of the unprovoked attack on the Suez Canal.

The Jordanian navy command said the bulk of the Soviet naval force is expected to sail through the Suez Canal in the next 24 hours.

The command said another destroyer, No. 335, and the Japanese destroyer, No. 335, are expected to pass through the Bosporus. They will be accompanied by a fleet of other ships.

According to a sailing schedule of Soviet warships through the strait handed to the Turkish government, the Soviet fleet is expected to pass through the Bosporus in the next 24 hours.

Elimination Of Tax On Items Effective

BOISE (AP)—Beginning on Wednesday, you can buy oleomargarine in Idaho without paying a 10-cent-per-pound state tax. You also can have a prescription filled at a pharmacy without paying a sales tax on it. Those are two of the many laws enacted by the 1967 Idaho Legislature which lacked specific effective dates and thus became a part of the state code Wednesday—60 days following adjournment of the session. The tax on oleomargarine was collected as a protection for the butter producers in the days when the products were competitive from a price standpoint.

But repeal was voted by the 1967 Legislature on ground that butter no longer needs the protection and that the recent tax is a burden on low-income families.

Another new law permits public institutions to use oleomargarine as a protection for the butter producers in the days when the products were competitive from a price standpoint.

But the loss of revenue from the 3 percent levy on oleomargarine was made up by the removal of the tax on the sale of a motor vehicle by one individual to another. This had not been taxed, as long as the individual sold no more than two cars a year.

But hereafter, all motor vehicle sales are taxed and the 3 percent levy may be paid by the new owner or the dealer. The new owner can obtain his registration certificate and title from the dealer.

Among the many laws becoming effective Wednesday are:—Increase the legal age for marriage without consent and parental approval to 18 years for persons under 21.

Jets Hit Fuel Dumps Close To Haiphong

SAIGON (AP)—U.S. Navy jets from the carrier Hancock today hit a fuel dump close to Haiphong, the largest port in North Vietnam, in a major attack on the immediate areas of North Vietnam's two major cities were being supplied temporarily while U.S. forces concentrated on less well defended targets.

Heavy ground fighting was reported in South Vietnam Tuesday and today. U.S. Marines were fighting near the demilitarized zone, troops of the 1st Cavalry, Airborne Division, and the 1st Marine Division.

U.S. headquarters reported three U.S. planes lost in the past 24 hours over North Vietnam, and a helicopter shot down and destroyed in South Vietnam. The Navy said it had lost 10 to 15 aircraft in the past 24 hours.

Medal Winner's Courage Shows Through

A Twin Falls man, Spec. 4 Robert L. Tennant, 23, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Tennant, 235 Sixth Ave. E., who has been awarded the Bronze Star medal for outstanding heroism and service to his fellow men, was the subject of a Memorial Day article yesterday in the Chicago Sun-Times.

About a year ago, he was a radioman in a company that was guarding artillery. Suddenly, the other side began firing mortar shells.

Realizing that no one else volunteered for the job, Tennant grabbed three boxes of ammunition and ran through a screen of bullets to where his own men were trapped.

For distinguishing himself in this way, Tennant received the Bronze Star medal at Hines, Ill. "Medals are just cold pieces of metal, in and of themselves, but what they represent is meaningful," the Sun-Times writer pointed out.

Bob Tennant had the courage such medals represent. He still has that courage, but now shown in a much different way. As many others, he has paid a terrible price in a war not of his doing.

But Bob Tennant hasn't given up, his courage still shows through.

On Oct. 10, 1967, on a mountain ridge near Tuy Hoa, a coastal community 250 miles northeast of Saigon, an officer ordered Tennant to pick up a piece of wood and use it to build a rain shelter.

"I started to pick up the board, but it was booby-trap. His left eye—the bone will be replaced," said Tennant.

The grenade exploded in his face, causing him to lose both eyes and a section of bone above his left eye.

"I don't regret what has happened to me," says Tennant. "I can't like being dead."

Tennant will remain in Twin Falls for about two months before enrolling in a vocational school for the blind in Los Angeles, Calif.

Shoshone Cub Scouts Go On Field Trip

SHOSHONE—Pack 57 of Cub Scouts have returned from a field trip taken Saturday, in which 29 boys participated.

Committees and fathers who went along and furnished transportation were Russell Scott, Raymond Freeman, R. R. Churchman, Ivan Hopkins, Kenneth Ohlinger, Charles Harston, Richard Jensen, Gerald Quinn and Benjie Ray Webb.

The group went to the Crater Butte east of Shoshone and then to Dietrich Butte where they looked for artifacts and Indian heads. They took a sack lunch and the pack finished the soft drink.

7 Hurt In 3-Car Mishap Near Declo

DECLO — Seven people were injured in a three-car mishap which occurred Tuesday afternoon near Declo on Interstate 80 North.

A 1962 International flatbed truck, driven by Theodore R. Schofield, 62, Declo, was struck from behind by a 1965 Chevrolet, driven by Harold Leslie Huffman, 46, Vancouver, Wash. The third car, a 1960 Dodge driven by Guy Yamashiro, 46, Home-dale, struck the Huffman car from the rear.

Mr. Schofield and Mrs. Ethel Schofield, 62; Mr. Huffman and Mrs. Louise Huffman, 42; and Janice Huffman, 10, and Mr. Yamashiro and Mrs. Mary S. Yamashiro, 43, were all taken to Cassia Memorial Hospital, Burley, for treatment of injuries. Mr. and Mrs. Schofield and Mr. and Mrs. Yamashiro were treated and released Tuesday.

Mr. Huffman was treated for facial cuts, abrasions and shock, and was to be released Wednesday.

His ten-year-old daughter Janice was reported in good condition with bruises and abrasions. Mrs. Huffman was reported in good condition Wednesday with a fractured pelvis, bruises and abrasions.

The Schofield truck received $1,000 damages, the Huffman car $1,000, and the Yamashiro car $300.

Mr. Huffman was cited for driving without due regard. He said he was traveling east in the outside lane, came upon the slow moving truck and was not able to stop.

State Patrolman Roy Thomas investigated.

Pre-School Kindergarten Scheduled

BURLEY — School-sponsored pre-school kindergarten is tentatively scheduled for all Cassia County children.

It is intended to operate kindergartens in the Dwarshak School, Burley, and at the Declo Elementary, Oakley Elementary and Malta Elementary Schools.

Pupils eligible are those whose sixth birthday anniversary is before Oct. 15, 1967, and who have not attended a kindergarten before. Class tentatively will begin at 9 a.m. on June 12 and continues for eight weeks ending on Aug. 4. Lunch will be available for those desiring it. The cost has not been determined and will depend upon amount of federal money available.

Authorities have found that the early years of childhood are the most critical years for learning and are the periods of greatest growth. The early years of development play an important part in developing the generalized skills that are essential to learning. Previous experience has shown that handicaps which affect a child's educational performance are subject to change by appropriate preschool activities.

It is their purpose to prepare many children as possible for successful and satisfying school experiences when they enter first grade next fall through this summer kindergarten program.

"Gopastami" Is Special Day In India To Worship Cows

By SANTOSH K. BASAK
CALCUTTA, India (AP)—India has its own equivalent of Mother's Day and Father's Day. It's called Gopastami. But instead of honoring parents, the country's Hindu majority uses the occasion to worship cows.

On that day, which usually falls in November when the moon's position is considered right by astrologers, India's 250 million cows are given a complete rest from their normal burdens of labor.

Early in the morning Hindu men, women and children wash the feet of the animals with water from the Holy Ganges River, put sandalwood paste on their horns, garland them and feed them sweets, fruits and fresh grass.

Even a cow or bull without a calf is made to feel like a "Mother Cow". Then the annual rituals begin, with the washing of the cows' feet and the gar-landing being repeated over and over.

The last observance of Gopastami, on Nov. 20, was held against a backdrop of renewed agitation by Hindu sadhus (sacred-holy men) for a nationwide ban against the slaughter of cows.

At some of the fairs, funds were raised to aid the campaign. To counter the agitation, a government official tried to tell a rally at Sodepur that the Hindu demands could bring charges against India that it was trying to interfere with the rights of religious minorities, such as the Moslems, who eat beef.

Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's government has resisted the demands of the sadhus, saying the legislation is for the states to enact. Actually, all but six of the country's 17 states already ban the slaughter of cows.

What's the best read column in Washington, D.C.?

And Kokomo, Ind., Newton, Mass., Hypoluxo, Fla., Hoboken, N.J., or you name it?

Answer: Dear Abby.
Dear Abby (Mrs. Morton Phillips, wife and mother of two) thought the conductor of an advice column was giving its readers bum steers. And told the editors so. They said, "Okay, See if you can do any better." She was back in three hours—and shortly after found herself a working columnist. That was ten years ago.

Today Dear Abby averages 500,000 letters a year, which represents quite a pile of problems, questions, opinions. Every letter that requires an answer gets one—with the help of psychic, medical, clerical, educational and legal consultants, and a staff of secretaries.

Only the more interesting letters and answers go into her column. More than 800 newspapers carry Dear Abby—including this one! And we don't buy features just to fill space, but to give our readers the best! If you're not a Dear Abby regular, try it on for size.

Popular Area

Now it is official! The Middle area of Idaho—which in this instance includes the Valley—is the most popular part of the state from the standpoint of the tourist.

Statistics just released by the Idaho Department of Commerce and Development mean that visitors spend an average of 6.4 days in this Middle area as against 1.8 days in the North portion of the state and 2.8 days in the Eastern section.

For purposes of study the community of Kootenai was designated the geographical center of the North area, Ketchum the Middle area and Idaho Falls the Eastern section.

The report discloses that not only do the tourists stay longer in our area but they also spend more while they are here. Visitors to the North spend on the average of $7.35 a day and the East $6.85 a day while the Middle area tourists dropped $2.20 into the economy.

These Middle area visitors come mostly to rest because there were two and three times as many business trips into the North and Eastern sections.

In all areas, previous visits rank high in bringing in more visitors. Evidently the State of Idaho is an excellent sales agent for Idaho. More visitors came from the North and Eastern sections in the East. Advertising is credited with bringing in new visitors at five per cent in the North, 10 per cent in the East and 15 per cent in the Middle area.

The tabulations in the tourist survey were made by employees of the Development Department and also by staffs of national magazines and the federal agencies operating National Parks and Monuments.

This is the first time that the tourist to Idaho has been studied from a sectional basis. The last time was in 1950 when the area best when they want a good place to rest and enjoy nature.

Most of them travel, drive or fly a long distance to Idaho. We want to make them feel at home so they will return another day.

RESTORING INCENTIVES

As approved by House-Senate conferences, the bill will "restore" the incentives for business investment in equipment and buildings is more liberal than the administration proposed. The committee will "restore" the tax credit estimated $1.7 billion in lost income, $625 million more than the White House intended.

The incentives were suspended last Oct. 10 as part of President Johnson's effort to cut an overhailed economy. But early this year he requested their restoration.

Since the bill makes the tax abatement incentive to last March 31, the Treasury might have been better off had there been no suspension in the first place. All of which supports the impression that the accuracy of Mr. Johnson's advisers in making such estimates is about about the level of the weatherman's forecasts this spring.

Restoration of the tax incentives should will be proposed 6 per cent surcharge on income taxes. Congress would hardly be consistent in giving business a tax break and then imposing an increased burden on income taxpayers.

NEW POWER FOR CARS?

Two U.S. Senate committees are holding joint hearings on the development of electric-powered automobiles. That's how far concern about the air people breathe has gone in the U.S.

California leads so far in its requirements for exhaust-pipe controls, but will share the same devices with other states which have similar engine-out tests.

Even so, President Johnson in January warned that "the sheer numbers of motor vehicles may, within a decade or two, make the best pollution control methods we can develop." He added:

"If this proves true, surely we cannot continue to use the type of internal combustion engine now in service. New types of internal combustion engines or completely new propulsion systems — may be required."

This, of course, is no attack on the automobile. It is a challenge to it in a simple recognition of the poisons and corrosive forces that make Los Angeles almost uninhabitable under the smog and the carbon monoxide that contribute to the hacking coughs of many in other areas.

As for the prospect of electric cars—spokesmen for Ford and General Motors say that the transition from gas to electricity. Perhaps the power will be batteries, perhaps ultimately fuel cells that change chemicals into electric energy directly,

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

By ANDREW TULLY

WASHINGTON — For the average consumer, the prospect over the next 12 months is dark indeed and that should give Andrew Johnson another worry to add to a bog which already is besieging with the Vietnam war, the economy and the price of oil.

With the 1963 Presidential campaign already gathering steam, Johnson at this point can offer the electorate little more than "steady, steady, steady" and, tears, and another swipe at its pocketbook. Like diamonds, diamonds, diamonds apparently is forever, and the danger that the ruckus in the Middle East may erupt into World War III adds the further threat of wage and price controls. Indeed, this is a very real possibility even where only the Vietnam war is concerned.

The Agriculture Department says groceries will cost Americans 2 to 3 per cent more by this summer. John L. Horne, chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, says the economy and itself another light — money priced this fall. And there is talk that the federal deficit next year will soar as high as $29 billion.

MORE TO MIDDLEMEN — For the year as a whole, the Agriculture Department says an average jump of 1.7 per cent in food costs, the predicted rise is expected to wipe out a decline of nearly 1 per cent in the first three months of the year, and then advance 1.2 per cent on top of that. Meanwhile, prices paid to farmers are expected to drop 1.2 per cent from last summer and 7 per cent below last year's average.

Costlier home — Housing industry sources also are gloomy. They say the possibility of an abrupt end to the downward trend in mortgage interest rates and construction financing. The ready, the average price on the resale market of 6 per cent, 30-year home loans has dipped while the Middle area tourists dropped $2.20 into the economy.

MIXED RESULTS FROM STATE POLICE

A shift of 21 moving out of entry men to State Police patrol duties has brought what Commissioner William M. Shattuck said was a "moderate" improvement in moving traffic violators. But it also has brought poorer enforcement of the law, he said.

The State Police had asked the legislature for additional state patrolmen. Gov. Don Samuelson decided instead on the shift of moving patrol personnel from the highways to the streets.

RUSSIAN GENERATORS?

Secretary of Interior Stewart Udall, who has decided to let Soviet Union as well as other countries to build hydroelectric power plants in the Grand Coulee Dam expansion, approaches the matter with a heavy heart.

He has stated four reasons why the first three generators will be limited to American bids. In his opinion, the U.S. has the best technology available to be served by reliability and ready availability of domestic products that U.S. manufacturers can produce.

Childs Views Today's Issues

By MARQUIS CHILDS

WASHINGTON — The issue is somewhat different, but the words are the same. It is being said by men of authority, cannot or will not cut the war in Vietnam.

These comfortable words are actually lying. They are assurances of 17 years ago when the United States was deeply discomfited by the Korean war, the boundary between North Korea and South Korea. Moreover, certain of the same men in authority have responsibility today for Asian policy.

Father, Son Meet After Ten Years

DANVILLE, Ky. (AP) — It was only natural that painter Chester Sparkman should ask his young co-worker, "What's your name, boy?"

Chester was hardly prepared for his reply: "Oscar Sparkman."

It was the first meeting of the father and son since Oscar, an older brother and three younger sisters were taken to an orphanage in 1957 after the death of their mother.

The reunion came in the Sparkman's home town and on a job where the father and son worked for more than a week before finding out who each other was.

After placing his children in the Soldiers and Sailors Children's Home in Knightstown, Ind., Chester Sparkman migrated to Ohio, Virginia and finally to Colorado for work.

"There never seemed to be enough money left over to get back to Indiana," he said. "And I ain't much for writing."

He finally got back to Indiana last year and went to see the children but they weren't in the home any more. Every time I found out where Oscar was working I went to look but he had moved to another job by the time I got there."

Oscar, now 19, came back to Danville and last January went to work at the Pioneer Playhouse. His brother and a sister live nearby. Two other sisters were adopted by a family in Bowtell, Ind.

The father said he recognized Oscar, though the boy had no idea of his dad's identity.

Now the two are together again, the Sparkmans are a little unsure of their plans.

"We've been spending a lot of time together this week, but I guess I'm a little like my father," said Oscar.

"When my foot itches I got to move on."

CHESTER SPARKMAN, right, was working on the same carpentry job at the Pioneer Playhouse here when he asked the boy he was working with his name. Chester was amazed to find it was his son, Oscar, 19, with whom he had last touch after the death of Mrs. Sparkman. Oscar and the other Sparkman children were raised as orphans, and Chester had to travel to find work. The meeting was the first for the father and son since 1957. Oscar is left in the photo. Some Diplomats Expect U.N. Rule On Middle East Crisis

By WILLIAM N. OATIS
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Some diplomats predicted today that the U.N. Security Council will adopt a resolution before the weekend calling on all sides for restraint in the Middle East crisis.

They said the resolution might be handed in after the council's fifth meeting on the crisis this afternoon and might be adopted Thursday.

The council meeting was scheduled to start at 3 p.m.

The informants said ideas for the resolution were put on paper at a conference Tuesday among Bulgaria, Ethiopia, India, Japan, Mali and Nigeria, who redrafted a working paper originally submitted Saturday by Denmark.

The informants said the expected resolution would propose that the council do substantially what Nigerian Ambassador J. T. F. Iyalla suggested it do.

At an extraordinary Memorial Day council meeting Tuesday, sign-

Iyalla stressed that "the council should issue an appeal for restraint."
"The council should endorse the recommendations of the secretary-general, particularly for the resumption of the Egypt-Israeli Mixed Armistice Commission," Iyalla added.

Traffic Courts
Michael Mann, Shoshone, was fined $10 for speeding when he appeared before Probate Judge C. M. Wilson. Also fined by Judge Wilson were Carla Jo Berriochoa, Shoshone, $11 for speeding, and Roy E. McClure, Dietrich, $5 for running a stop sign.

Conservation Board To Discuss Grass

SHOSHONE — Corwin Silva, north Shoshone, will discuss the seeding and management of birdfoot, trefoli and sainfoin in the pasture stands at the regular meeting of Wood River Soil and Water Conservation District Board of Supervisors at 8 p.m. Thursday, in the local courtroom of the courthouse.

Mr. Silva will point out the fact that both trefoli and sainfoin are blast free, and that they are legumes which may be used in both hay and pasture stands. Neither crop is as productive as alfalfa, but they may, under the right management, be somewhat more productive than ladino clover. He will note that weevil and aphid do not seem to damage these as much as they do alfalfa elders.

One of the chief advantages to be gained from a field of trefoli and grass pasture is blast-free pasture for cattle and sheep while the alfalfa and clover-grass pastures are maturing to the point where the blast hazard is reduced to its lowest point. All interested persons are invited to attend the meeting.

Mao Plastered All Over China

By CHIE NISHIO
PEKING (AP)—Wherever you go, Mao, Mao, Mao. The Chinese don't seem to get tired of reading about Mao Tse-tung. Chairman Mao, so there is no need to believe in it.

Our guides took us in Canton streets, carrying Mao's quotations. When we crossed the border from Hong Kong to Shumshun, each member of our party received a copy of Mao's quotations. Then we went to another room of the station to watch a 20-minute song and dance performance by 15 musicians and dancers. The theme: Chairman Mao Tse-tung.

On the 21-hour train ride to Canton, in the first class, or "soft seat" section we got tea and the conductresses began another performance. But first, an interpreter urged us to read from our little red Mao books.

The songs were of Mao's greatness, or taken from the book of quotations. On the blues of our 20-year-old conductresses were pinned small red canons of Mao.

"After a while we got used to opening our books; we sort of liked it."

We'd sing songs when the conductresses asked us. We didn't mind because they were fun.

As the train rolled through the countryside, with its red soil, its poor—and sometimes prosperous—farms, its sparse trees and broad vistas, I thought how they built the Great Wall. How many people without machines, so many, many years to build, like the pyramids of Egypt; the suffering, the hard life.

In Canton, another show, this time by the army. They were waiting for us at the station, with a picture of Mao and posters proclaiming: "Down with Liu Shao-chi." Soldiers gripped Mao's little red book in their hands.

Before eating dinner we read from Mao's thoughts. I asked our interpreter about religion to see a leadership school Mao founded in 1934; it is a mosque for Red Guards. At a militia training ground, there was live ammunition firing, hearing about him, seeing Chairman Mao, so there is no need to believe in it. Our guides took us in Canton streets, carrying Mao's quotations. Band music was interspersed with Mao's thoughts. In Peking, Shanghai, Chengchow, along the Great Wall, in the communes, it was the same: An ever-present Mao watched us.

Pope Receives De Gaulle And Urges Unity

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI received President Charles de Gaulle today and appeared for progress toward European unity as a step toward world peace.

In a statement read after the 69-year-old pontiff and the 79-year-old president conferred alone for 20 minutes, the Pope said the French chief of state's attendance at the Common Market summit conference in Rome Monday and Tuesday showed the value attributed to "the good functioning and affirmation of the European community."

"This is only a step toward peace and true fraternity among peoples of the world," the Pope declared. "It is necessary to watch further, to enlarge the horizon to world dimensions."

It was De Gaulle's third papal audience. Plus XI received him on June 29, 1964, and 15 years later he met with Pope John XXIII.

Plans Almost Complete For VFW Meet

RUPERT — Plans are nearing completion for the State Convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars to be held in Rupert June 14 through 17, according to the convention chairman, Robert Powers, commander of the Harlow Hoopes Post No. 3073, Rupert, who will be hosting the annual affair.

The Ladies Auxiliary will also meet in conjunction with the VFW convention. National guests expected are Herbert R. Ralwitzer, Granada Hills, Calif., inspector general of the VFW, and Mrs. Paul A. (Frances) Harmon, Omaha, Neb., national guard of the Ladies Auxiliary.

Conducting the daily sessions will be the Department Commander, Herb Millard, Julietta, Idaho. General sessions will be held at the Rupert Elks Lodge, Power said. Members of the Royal Order of Canites, local service posts, will convene on the opening day.

The convention proper gets under way June 15 with an 8:30 a.m. joint opening to which the public is invited. Presentation of awards is scheduled for 10 a.m. and a joint memorial service at 11 a.m. is open to the public.

Other special activities planned include a tour of the J. R. Simple plant in Heyburn for the men and women; a smorgasbord and western dance on Thursday evening; cocktail hour, banquet and dance on Friday evening, when Mr. Erlend will be the principal speaker; and a post-convention party scheduled for 8 p.m. Saturday.

The Auxiliary will hold a post-president's breakfast on Friday morning; a Gold Star Mothers luncheon that day; a breakfast for new presidents, on Saturday morning, all at Hiram's Cafeteria.

Installation and closing ceremonies are planned for 1:30 p.m. Saturday. Among those assisting Mr. Powers with local arrangements are Mrs. Ray Timmons, publicity; reservations including Ray Timmons, registration.

CONFERRING WITH Pope Paul VI in the Vatican Wednesday is French President Charles de Gaulle. It was the French President's first official visit with Pope Paul. After the meeting, the Pope in a statement appeared for progress toward European unity as a step toward world peace. (AP wirephoto via cable from Rome)

Area Summer School Is Scheduled

BURLEY — Summer school classes are now being scheduled for students in Grades one through 12 and the present plans tentatively call for a summer kindergarten program for Cassia County students.

The program for grades one through six is basically intended to provide remedial work for students who have had some difficulty or for students who have not improved their skills in reading, arithmetic and language.

A summer music program is scheduled for band and orchestra. Forms for enrollment have been sent to the parents of the students involved. Classes will begin June 12 and will include Drivers Education for any student over 14 years of age who will be at least a Freshman. There is no fee for Drivers Education.

In addition credit will be offered for U.S. History, U.S. Government, General Science, General Math, First and Second Semester Biology, Advanced Biology, Electronics, Shop, Crafts, Art, Typing, Physical Fitness and Development Reading. One semester's credit in the preceding courses will be authorized.

Registration fee is $15 per high school course for which credit is approved. Classes will be held at the Burley High School and will last for nine weeks. Other courses will be made available if there are sufficient students interested and if a teacher can be secured.

Those interested should contact Earl Carlson at the Burley Senior High School, their own school principal for the various schools, or the Central School Office.

Fatality School Is Scheduled

SAN BRUNO, Calif. (AP) — The high-speed Bayshore Freeway accounted for possibly the strangest holiday fatality Monday night—a 200-pound son.

The seal was killed in the northbound lane, about two miles from his natural habitat in San Francisco Bay.

Fitness Plan May Be Added To Schools

RUPERT — Minidoka County Council of the PTA sponsored an informal meeting last week at Minidoka High School to discuss the possibility of a physical fitness program in Minidoka County.

Guest speakers were Marlon Unidohn, Twin Falls, physical therapist, and Dr. H. W. Crawford, Rupert.

In attendance were principals and superintendents of county schools, executive boards of local PTA units, and physical education teachers. Possibilities of using such a program as a future project of PTA groups in the county were discussed at length. Following reports by the two speakers, the council president, conducted the meeting.

Valley Traffic Courts

John Shaul for speeding, was fined $10 for failure to yield leaving a parking space. Jerry R. Sauer, Burley, was fined $25 and license suspended 30 days for reckless driving.

Mr. Mangers, 64, Dies In Nebraska

SHOSHONE — Pete Mangers, 64, Hastings, Neb., died Wednesday in a hospital there, with funeral services held Saturday.

He is survived by his wife, two daughters, Mrs. Herman Braun, North Shoshone, and Mrs. Ethel Lemmer, Chicago; 11 grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Ronald Stevens, Gooding, is a granddaughter. Mr. and Mrs. Braun and children made the trip to Hastings for the service. Mrs. Braun had visited her father there two weeks before his death.

Funeral services are pending at Twin Falls Mortuary.

83 Graduated From Gooding High School

GOODING — Eighty-three seniors received diplomas in commencement ceremonies Sunday. Baccalaureate was held at 2 p.m. Sunday in Frahm Junior High School and graduation was at 8 p.m.

is of him, so why should I have to come back to work after a hard day's work, while Randy comes home to "relax"? I think since I'm also working, my husband should share in the housework. This leads to arguments. Please answer soon as the kitchen sink is still piled with dishes from two nights ago.

BUSHED
DEAR BUSHED: One question: Why are you working? If you must work to not lose the cable, then Randy shouldn't mind helping with the housework. But, if you're working for extra luxuries, you'd be wiser to eat beans and work harder at making your home the one which your man will enjoy coming home to.

DEAR ABBY: I am a girl of 16. I have short hair and I like it that way. Today I went into a drug store, and the man said, "Hello, Sonny." (He actually mistook me for a boy.)

I used to like long hair on a boy (not down to his shoulders, of course, but "long") but now that I am wearing mine short I feel funny going out with a boy who has longer hair than I have.

Some of the boys wear their hair so long I have to look twice to see if they're boys or girls.

In don't understand how a boy would want to even take the chance of being mistaken for a girl. Can you explain this to me?

SHORT-HAIRED GIRL
DEAR GIRL: No, it doesn't make any more sense that the girl who would wear her hair so short that she would chance being mistaken for a boy. I don't care which argument you counter with if I have heard them all from Jesus to George Washington. I maintain that long hair is feminine and short hair is masculine, and the kind of impression one wants to create (consciously, or unconsciously) is his own business.

DEAR ABBY: When I send a gift and it isn't acknowledged within a month, I don't telephone a relative to find out if that person ever received my gift. I simply call that person directly and say, "Last month I sent you a gift and had it charged to my account, which is now due. Before paying my bill I would like to be sure the article was delivered." It never fails. And by the way, I have yet to be told that my gift wasn't delivered.

THE ONLY PANTIE GIRDLE WITH 3 KINDS OF CONTROL FOR YOUR KIND OF FIGURE

Perma-Lift "Technique" THE ADJUSTABLE THIGH PANTIE

"Technique" is unique. It's a multi-control pantie made of an ingenious new stretch fabric of spandex and nylon that has control knitted in for every kind of shape.

Control 1: maximum support around the hips, tummy and backside, preventing those spreadable areas from spreading.

Control 2: medium support around your upper thighs keeps them firm. Because the control is decreased gradually, you get a smooth silhouette. No unsightly bumps or lumps that poke out of snug knits.

Control 3: minimum control at the pantie leg-bands. Where other panties bind and pinch, "Technique" allows each leg to adjust to your thigh size without unsightly bulges. Just $11.00.

Stylish with special hip controlling panels. $13.00

Kitty Brown, Whorton Wed. In Utah Rites

HAGERMAN — The First Unitarian Church at Salt Lake City was the setting for the wedding of Kitty Lou Brown, daughter of Mrs. Herb Jepko and D. W. Brown, both Salt Lake City, and William (Bill) Whorton, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Whorton. The double ring ceremony was solemnized May 20 with Rev. Hugh W. Gilliam of the First Unitarian Church, officiating. Arrangements of yellow and white chrysanthemums formed the background setting. The bride wore a street-length gown of white bonded lace fastened with an empire waistline, elbow-length sleeves and a scooped neckline. Her shoulder-length veil of bridal illusion was held with a white bow. She carried a bouquet of yellow roses and white chrysanthemums tied with long satin streamers. Maid of honor was Karla Ann Brown, sister of the bride. Bridesmaids were Shirley Spoford, Lorie Tohill and Sharon Butt, all Salt Lake City. Alvin Allen, Nyssa, Ore., and Mrs. Horace Coltrin, members of the "Tidally" of Taculim, were bridesmaids.

GFWC President Will Receive Honorary Degree

Mrs. E. D. Pearce, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, will receive an honorary degree, doctor of pedology, at Centro Escolar University, Manila, Philippines, June 21. Mrs. Pearce will lead a good-will tour of the South Pacific and Orient immediately following the 70th annual convention of the General Federation of Women's Clubs to be held Sunday through June 8, inclusive, in San Francisco, Calif. Two club conferences will be held—one in Sydney, Australia, and the other in Manila. The delegation will also meet with clubwomen in Hawaii, New Zealand, Hong Kong, and Japan. A stop will also be made in Tahiti. Prominent men and women in government and cultural affairs will address both conferences. In Sydney on June 26 speakers include U. S. Ambassador Edward Clark, Eric A. Willis, Australian Minister for Labor and Industry, and the Lord Mayor of Sydney, Alderman John Armstrong. Highlighting the Manila conference on June 28 will be the President of the Philippines, Ferdinand Marcos; General Carlos E. Romulo, President of the University of the Philippines; and U. S. Ambassador, William McCormick Blair Jr. Members of the Federation of Asian Women's Associations, who will be holding their meeting in Manila preceding the arrival of the General Federation group, will also attend the GFWC conference as they are members of the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

with the ace and queen of clubs. The student apologized to his partner for not having gone after the overtrick. Then he turned lead. Then he proceeded to play out dummy's six hearts with elaborate ceremony. At least, he any way that I could have figured through deep cerebration used out from the play that East had discarded a heart no

After all, if West held the ace of clubs we couldn't make four hearts. The professor replied, "There was no way you could tell from the play but you did all your thinking along the wrong lines. I knew where the ace of clubs was at trick three."

"How could you?" asked the student.

The professor replied, "The moment East showed out on the third spade lead I knew that West held a five-card spade suit headed by king-queen-jack-ten. If West had also held the ace of clubs he would have overcalled your diamond opening with one spade. He had not overcalled. He could not hold that card."

What do you do now?

A—bid six spades only. Your partner only rebid to two diamonds. He is not likely to hold three aces with his two aces.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Instead of rebidding two diamonds your partner jumps to three diamonds. What do you do?

Date-Line

D (For Date) Day—Who Isn't Scared?

For a boy in early teens, court of your sudden illness, of your age is a sometimes thing. You want to talk to a special girl, but you freeze up until one day, when your tongue unsticks and you find yourself asking her to go out. And wonder of wonders, she accepts.

To a girl, the delightful anticipation until the doubts start to pile up. What will you do all evening long? How are you to come and go? The thought of dad chattering is too much! And what about the goodnight scene? You've never kissed a girl, will she expect it?

Soon what seemed like heaven, looms as invitingly as the yawning fangs of hell. Your nerves are all over the place. You're trying to get out of the impending date. Dozens of escape plans cross your mind, but you discard them all as being too transparent.

On the day of the date you walk exhausted, spent from a night of dream goblins and spooky. Your hands are clammy, and your stomach queasy. As the clock's hands race toward your date, you're telling yourself you'll be a mute, blushing, inept cretin. Already you hear detailing your shame for all the school to hear Monday morning.

COUNTDOWN TIME

5 p.m. dinner, and your parents comment on your distract. Did someone tell you a joke, and you flare out in sudden anger, half hoping that he'll see his cool and save you from stay in for the evening. But the reprieve is gentle, and the family simply talks across the head bent for the balance of the meal.

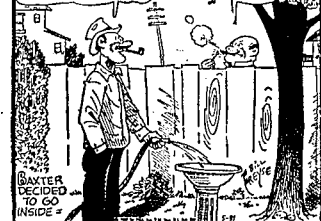

30: you change your shirt for the third time, and pay your fifth visit to the bathroom. You look at your face in the mirror, and hate the burning cheeks that give your malaise away. You screw up your face in the sophisticated, bored manner of your favorite star, but view in the glass only the comeliness of a young boy trying not to cry.

A few minutes after seven, you pop your head in the living room and holler that you're on your way, that plans have changed and you'll be doubling with Johnny. Then you cut before a question.

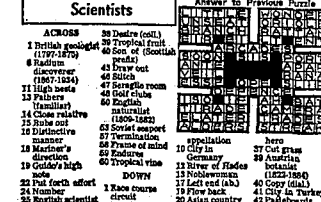

A few minutes' walk takes you to a gasoline station phone booth. You close the doors and pray that a passing horn won't give your location away. Then you sit the girl's number. Five rings, an eternity, until she answers. Making your voice as hoarse as possible, you tell her: "Well, if it isn't Jack! HEY, THE ONE-MAN CRIME WAVE IS SUPPOSE TO HAVE TO TELL THE NEWSBOY TO PUT THE PAPER INSIDE THE DOOR NOW! WAIT A MINUTE—I WAS FORGETTING YOU CAN'T READ."

Major Hoops

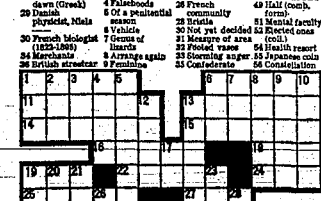

YOU'VE asked the girl for a date. Now what? Send for Elie's eight-page booklet, "Dating Hints, Especially for the Fellow who is nervous and shy." It is packed with many helpful suggestions. For a copy, send a dime and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Elie rings, an eternity, until she answers. Making your voice as hoarse as possible, you tell her: "Well, if it isn't Jack! ANGLERS THIS SECTION OF STREAM OPEN TO FLY FISHING ONLY

By Order of State Fish and Game Commission

PUBLIC ACCESS SITE

Fishermen!
You may cross private lands to fish in Silver Creek from this point.
Crossing private property to fish in public waters is a privilege — Not a Right!
— DO NOT ABUSE IT.

FLY FISHING ONLY portion of Silver Creek, a stretch of one and one-half stream miles, is depicted in this picture. The area runs west from the Kilpatrick Bridge upstream to the mouth of Greve Creek, seen at the extreme left of the picture, about 100 yards above the large house. The first such designated stretch of stream in the state, the fly fishing only rule applies to "any fly which is constructed by the common method known as fly tying so as to resemble a natural insect and designed either to float on the surface or sink beneath the surface of the water but does not include any spinner, wobbler or any attractor or device or any bait attached." It also is unlawful to fish from a raft or boat on the stretch. Float tubes are not defined as rafts or boats. The general fishing season opens Saturday. Silver Creek is expected to be one of the best fishing spots in Magic Valley Saturday. (Times-News photo)

Triple Play Helps Redlegs Edge Cards

CINCINNATI (AP) — Tony Perez' leadoff triple in the eighth inning — the first hit off St. Louis' Dick Hughes — triggered a two-run rally and the Cincinnati Reds pulled off a triple play in the ninth for a 2-1 victory over the Cardinals Tuesday night.

Hughes, a 23-year-old right-hander who pitched a two-hit shutout against Atlanta in his previous start, hurled seven perfect innings and struck out 12 before Perez tripled off the center field fence, extending his hitting streak to 17 games.

Vada Pinson then doubled, scoring pinch runner Chico Ruiz to tie the game 1-1, and one out later Lou Cardenas drove in the winning run with a single to left.

Indians Split Twin Bill With Orioles

BAUTIMORE (AP) — Sam McDowell held Baltimore to three hits in the nightcap Tuesday, giving the Cleveland Indians a 5-2 victory and a split of a hot-day doubleheader.

The Orioles won the opener 5-4 as Russ Snyder rapped out three hits, scored twice and drove in the deciding run.

McDowell, 32, completing his first game in 10 starts, allowed four hits in the first two innings and then blanked the Orioles until Frank Robinson rapped his 16th homer in the eighth, giving a walk.

First Game
Cleveland 101 001 000 — 3-7-2
Baltimore 001 000 020 — 5-4-0
Hargan, O'Donoghue (9), Blair (9) and Accardo (8) pitched for the Indians. Accardo (8) pitched for the Orioles.

Second Game
Cleveland 000 000 — 3-7-0
Baltimore 000 000 020 — 5-4-0
McDowell and Sims; Bunker, Davis and Haller (9) pitched for the Indians. McDowell (32), L-Hargan, 64, pitched for the Orioles.

Phils Edge Marichal And Giants 5-4

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Jim Bunning's ninth-inning homer off San Francisco's Philadelphia Phillies gave the San Francisco Giants a 5-4 victory over the season's second-highest fielding team, breaking the ace Giant pitcher's eight-game victory string.

Tom Haller's second home run of the game was a solo shot with one out in the eighth, tied the game at 4-4.

Phils' Phil Nease had gone ahead in the top of the eighth when Marichal's second "baseball" Bob Schriver's error allowed Johnny Briggs to score from second base.

Standard VENTURA, Calif. (AP) — National Open champion Billy Casper shot a 71, and PGA titlist Al Geiberger a 72 Tuesday in the National Golf Day round over the par-72 Olivas Park course.

About 2,000 spectators watched Casper and Geiberger compete against golfers from around the nation who will play on their local courses using handicaps. Golfers who beat the pros will receive awards.

Maloney in the ninth on singles by Orlando Cepeda and Tim McCarver. Don Notbart replaced Maloney and Phil Gagliano, the only batter he faced, bounced into the game-ending triple play.

Shortstop Cardenas grabbed the ball and flipped to Tommy Helms at second, forcing McCarver. As Helms relayed to first baseman Deron Johnson for the second out, Cepeda broke for the plate but was nailed on Johnson's perfect pop to catcher John Edwards.

Solons Stun A's Sweep Twin Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cap Peterson's two-out homer in the bottom of the 11th inning gave Washington a 4-3 victory in the nightcap and a sweep of its doubleheader with Kansas City Tuesday.

Frank Howard drove in all six runs for the Senators in the opener as they won 6-2 behind Phil Ortega's pitching.

Frank Valentine's homer in the bottom of the ninth of the second game tied it 3-3. Kansas City 000 000 002 — 2-7-2
Washington 000 200 045 — 6-1-3
Nash, Krause (8) and Root (8) pitched for the Senators. Ortega, Baldwin (9) and Casanova, W-Ortega, 2-5, L-Nash, 3-5.

Kansas City 001 001 010 003-7-0
Washington 000 001 011 01-4-1
Hunter, Aker (8) and Root (8) pitched for the A's. Nash, Krause (8), Humphreys (10) and Kamilli, King (10), W-Humphreys, 3-4, L-Aker, 2-3.

Stream Bed Ownership Is Unspecified

The ownership of lands under streams and waters not already declared navigable through courts still remains clouded despite action by the recent legislature.

Although some have interpreted the new meaning of the law to give ownership within the high water mark to the state, the new law does not say that specifically.

Ed Scholes, regional conservation supervisor, warns area anglers that trouble could develop unless a plan is exercised for the courteous and proper method of asking permission.

Scholes emphasized that the word navigable clearly is stated in the new revision. It begins "to regulate and control the use or disposition of lands in the beds of navigable lakes, rivers and streams."

High Water To Force Opening Day Anglers To Try Reservoirs And Spring-Fed Streams

You don't have to be much fish. The legal hours have been changed to correspond with daylight saving time. Fishing is allowed from 5 a.m. through 11 p.m.

One unusual aspect of this opening will be introduction of fly-fishing only on about one and one-half miles of Silver Creek. This area runs from the Kilpatrick Bridge west to the junction of Grove and Stocker Creeks, south and a little east of Grunitt. The remainder of the stream is open to all legal types of fishing.

Looking at the road situation, the Idaho Fish and Game Department reports Trail Creek, Ballalinda, Wells and Council summits all closed. The road on the South Fork of the Boise river from Big Smokey to Pea therly is closed due to a wash-out. Flock Summit to the upper portion of the South Fork of the Boise is open. James Creek Summit is closed.

Rain Delays 500-Miler In 18th Lap, But Turbine Already Has Field Cowed

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Rain Tuesday caused the first postponement in 41 years of the Memorial Day 500-mile auto race after a 45-mile whirl established Parnelli Jones' awesome turbine car a runaway favorite for Wednesday's resumption of the 51st motor classic. The race will pick up on the 18th lap. In its brief 18-lap baptism, Jones' fluorescent red turbine machine routed 32 rivals almost as quickly as a downpour scattered an estimated crowd of 225,000 some 18 minutes after the field roared off to a perfect start at 11 a.m. EST.

Yankees And Twins Swap Victories

NEW YORK (AP) — Left-handed Jim Merritt yielded a leadoff single and then gave up only one more hit in pitching the Minnesota Twins to a 2-0 victory over the New York Yankees in the second game of a double-header Tuesday.

Steve Wikander drove in three runs with a homer and triple and scored another in the Yankees' 4-2 first game victory. The Twins gave Merritt, 34, all the offensive help he needed when they scored three runs in the first inning on Red Carew's double and four singles. The Yankees jumped into a 2-0 lead in the second inning as the opener and made it 4-0 in the first game.

Red Sox Take Double Win From Angels

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Red Sox combined Tito Petrocelli's hitting and Dennis Bennett's pitching for their third doubleheader victory in 16 days, whipping the California Angels 4-0 and 6-1 Tuesday.

In the first game, the opener, a four-inning shutout and Tony Horton's pinch-dubbed hit in the eighth and then a walk to complete the sweep with Bennett and Petrocelli leading the way.

Boston spotted the Angels a 4-0 lead on two-run homers by Jimmie Hall and Don Minchey and then rallied for the first game victory.

In a masterful job in the nightcap, Bennett allowed only five hits, striking out five and walking one.

Petrocelli had three straight singles, scoring after a hit in the second, drove in a run and later scored in the fourth and capped his day by laying down a perfect squeeze bunt for another RBI in the fifth.

Bone Spur On Left Elbow Forces Ford To Retire From Pitching

NEW YORK (AP) — Whitey Ford retired Tuesday at the age of 38 because of a bone spur in his left elbow after winning more games for the New York Yankees than any other pitcher. The witty left-hander, born and raised in New York, finished with a fantastic 236-103 won-lost record and a .409 percentage, one of the best in modern day baseball. One of the last symbols of the old Yankee dynasty, Ford had been with the club since early July, 1950, pitched in 11 pennant winners and had led a flock of World Series records.

In addition to most victories, 18, starts, 22, and strikeouts, 91, Ford broke Babe Ruth's World Series record for consecutive scoreless innings with a 21-2-3 winning streak from 1950 to 1952.

A fun-loving man, but deadly serious at his work, Ford loved to display his pitte sense of humor in interviews.

After paying his respects to the Yankees organization and the managers under whom he had played, Whitey said, "I came here in 1950, wearing $20 suits and I'm leaving wearing $200 suits. So I guess I'm doing all right."

It was a sad day for the Yankees, who had hoped for a comeback by Whitey after his line showing in early season. For the first time since he had undergone two operations on the left shoulder, he was throwing with his old skill until the elbow acted up May 21 at Detroit.

Ford, who had gone to camp from Detroit to rest the arm, he said he would make his decision when the club came home from its road trip.

Mike Burke, president of the Yankees, said Ford would remain with the organization as a scout.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Len Gabrielson and Willie Davis each streaked two-run singles and right-handed Don Sutton pitched a five-hitter as the Los Angeles Dodgers flattened the New York Mets 7-2 Tuesday night.

The Dodgers, playing without four runs in the fourth inning, and breezed the rest of the way.

Gabrielson, subbing for Fernando, slammed three singles, pacing a 10-hit attack against reliever Bob Shaw, 0-3, and two relievers.

Tigers Drop Sox, Assume League Lead

DETROIT (AP) — Relief pitcher Bob Locker's throwing error allowed Jim Northrup to score the winning run in the second game as Detroit moved into first place in the American League Tuesday with a 4-2, 2-0 doubleheader sweep over the Chicago White Sox.

Behind 2-2 in the eighth inning of the nightcap, the Tigers tied the score on Willie Horton's home run and went ahead when Northrup threw wild to third on Jerry Lumpe's bunt attempt, trying to get Jim Northrup at third.

Northrup, who singled, scored the winning run.

In the first game, Horton and Norman Cash provided the margin of victory with run-scoring singles. Horton's in the seventh and Cash's in the ninth.

Peace Corps Zeroes In On College Senior

JAMES RUSSELL AKERS (RUSTY)

Senator Believes Mid-East Crisis Court Situation

By CARL HARTMAN
GENEVA (AP) — Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, proposed Tuesday that the key issue in the Middle East crisis be handed to the International Court of Justice.

"We can use the United Nations," he told the Peace in Terror — Peace on Earth conference. "We can use the International Court. We can refer it to the issue of the Strait of Tiran."

The Strait of Tiran is at the mouth of the Gulf of Aqaba, Jordan demands free passage through it to Elath, the only Israeli port facing the East. President Gamal Abdel Nasser, whose Egyptian guns now command the strait, insists that ships bound for Israel shall not pass.

The proposal that the court take over the case has been heard repeatedly from participants in the conference, an unofficial gathering in search of ways to limit conflict in the world. It opened Sunday and is due to end Wednesday.

CENSUS GIVEN
OTTAWA (AP) — Final 1966 census figures put Canada's population at 20,014,880, compared with 18,235,247 in 1951, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported.

By TOM SEFFY
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Peace Corps is increasingly zeroing in on the college senior as the ideal volunteer and private industry apparently is feeling the agency's recruiting effect.

Six years of Peace Corps experience has shown, says a recruiting chief Charles W. Butler, that the type person we are looking for can be most easily found on the college campus and more specifically among the seniors.

"My ideal volunteer is a liberal arts graduate who shows he can get along with people, has a degree of tolerance and won't quit when the going gets tough," says Butler—himself a former volunteer.

Of the Peace Corps' 4,350 volunteers in 1966, 26.6 per cent were college graduates. That proportion increased to 38.2 per cent for last year's 11,550 volunteers.

The agency notes private industry is increasingly aware of strong college campus recruiting done by the Peace Corps, which has helped its techniques to aim for the cream of college seniors.

"We know they don't like it very much," said one source. "But can you blame them? They're after the same kind of person we want."

Typical of the competition going on is the advertisement placed in college newspapers by General Electric.

"Want to change the world?" the copy says. "Join the Peace Corps... or join General Electric."

The body of the ad says: "Let's face it, the Peace Corps isn't everybody. Neither is medicine, law or social work. But you can get a lot of the same kind of satisfaction from a job with General Electric."

"Because we, too, are trying to make life on earth more livable."

A series of advertisements in the college edition of Time magazine this winter carried similar messages to students written in the name of industrial leaders.

"Nobody's putting down the Peace Corps—or any of the other public service projects competing for your postgraduate abilities. But you don't have to live in a lava or share a sleeping bag with twelve flies to test your mind and spirit," said one ad.

"Even surrounded by creature comforts in modern office buildings, you'll find there's a special kind of excitement and satisfaction in business. Here's the way Robert D. Anderson, board chairman of Atlantic Richfield Company, tells it."

A-Jerson then describes the excitement and challenge of the business world.

Butler's idea of what a volunteer should be is pretty much in line with a composite picture of what the average volunteer looks like, according to Dr. Robert Voas, director of the Peace Corps division of field selection.

Five areas of volunteer evaluation are skill, motivation, interpersonal effectiveness, language and emotional maturity.

"When you look at the evaluation chart, you can see that the best place to find the kind of person we are looking for is on the college campus," said Voas. A person doesn't have to be fluent in a foreign language when he enters the Peace Corps but he has only three months to learn one while in training.

Usually a college graduate will have some background in language," Voas said, "or he has disciplined himself so he can learn one in three months. A person who lacks college training has a more difficult time learning a language in a short period of time."

Voas gave this composite of the average volunteer candidate.

A 22-year-old male—the ratio is 60-40 in favor of males—who has just graduated from a liberal arts course, was a little above average student, had at least a year of foreign language, was active in extracurricular activities, isn't married but has a girl and probably comes from California or New England.

YOUTH Wins Suit Over Long Hair
SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — A 16-year-old boy who claimed a high school teacher cut his hair with sheep shears has won an out-of-court settlement.

The settlement came Monday as jurors deliberated the civil suit brought by Donald Demoulin against Fallbrook High School teacher Karl Bakken.

Amount of the settlement was not disclosed.

Donald and his mother had sued Bakken on grounds that the haircut allegedly administered in January 1966 was an assault and battery. They asked $30,000 damages.

Court Ruling Gives Backing To Policemen

By BARRY SCHWEID
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court has reined the delicate balance between individual liberties and police power with a significant shift to the right.

Monday's decision in a Maryland search case broadens the area of usable evidence and should help to compensate police for whatever damage was dealt "crime-solving" by last year's limits on usable confessions.

Moreover, it extends a trend in this year's court toward the side of policemen and may mute their bitter complaints of the last few years that the court was hamstringing them.

The 8-1 ruling wiped out a dissent that has stood for years between the kind of evidence that police may seize from a suspect's home while making an arrest and the kind they may not.

From now on, police following a suspect in "hot pursuit" from the scene of a crime to his home need not restrict their seizures to the spoils, such as stolen money, the instruments, such as a weapon, and contraband, such as counterfeit money.

They may take other objects, usually called "mere evidence," that had been exempt from seizure and had been unusable at trial. For instance, clothing that would help identify the suspect as the criminal or other items that would link him to the crime.

The distinction between seizable and unseizable evidence wiped out Monday was established by a unanimous 1951 Supreme Court that included Justices Oliver Wendell Holmes and Louis D. Brandeis.

ISRAEL's armed forces are heavily outnumbered by the combined forces of her major Arab enemies, but statistics don't tell the full story. The Israelis have an advantageous central position with short lines of communications and supply while the Arabs are separated by geography and political feuds. Also, many of the United Arab Republic's best troops are tied down in Yemen. Total Arab strength includes, in addition to the forces of the major states bordering on Israel, several thousand men which could be contributed by Lebanon and Saudi Arabia.

Chinese In Hong Kong Badly Split

HONG KONG (AP) — Chinese Communists in Hong Kong are badly split, with moderates accusing their foes of inviting disaster by trying to import Red China's purge to the British colony, informed sources said Tuesday.

The split and the fierceness with which British authorities put down Communist riots and a British demonstration, have set back communism so badly that some say it may take years to recover.

Most of the four million Chinese living in this colony at the edge of Red China have pledged their support to British authorities, who succeeded in putting down disorders earlier this month without killing or seriously wounding a demonstrator.

The Communists organized riots and demonstrations after police had broken up a strike demonstration, and Red China promptly accused Britain of "fascist atrocities" and "bloody repression."

Peking's charges that hundreds of Chinese were killed or seriously wounded produced laughter among most of the Chinese population.

The Communist moderates—many of them businessmen who have lived luxury-filled lives while growing rich in Hong Kong—are accusing colony supporters of Chinese Communist Chairman Mao Tse-tung of trying to import Mao's cultural revolution, or purge.

They charge that the purge has wrecked large areas of business in Hong Kong, informants said.

They bitterly charge that the Maoist radicals badly misjudged the temper of Hong Kong's Chinese and grossly exaggerated their local strength in enlisting and getting their support for the riots and demonstrations.

The hard-core Maoists blame the Communist defeat on the moderates' failure to take a hard line in whipping up mob violence, the informants said.

In private conferences, reported by Communist sources, the Maoist elements have accused the moderates of being anti-Mao and of supporting President Li Shao-chi, Mao's bitterest enemy in Red China.

of a dozen more could be marshaled from the home front without the rigors of hiking down the Ho Chi Minh trail through eastern Laos.

The Communists are counting on more mortar and rocket support than ever, and their use of artillery, especially during Hickey and on the U.S. outposts at Con Thien and Gio Linh, is a daily, murderous threat.

Moving for the first time into the southern section of the DMZ during Hickey, Marines and South Vietnamese troops uncovered significant weapons caches. They also removed the peasant population from under the guns of the enemy, which

U. S. Marines Kill 1,500 Of Enemy In Last Five Weeks

By JOHN LENSEL
DA NANG, Vietnam (AP) — With the end of a second flurry of fierce fighting along the demilitarized zone, U.S. Marines report they have killed 1,500 of the enemy in the last five weeks.

Marine casualties in that period, embracing the hill fighting in the Khe Sanh sector near the Laotian border and Operation Hickory in and below the DMZ in the eastern lowlands, have been 500 killing and 4,681 wounded.

"That's sizable for this war," a Marine general said today, "but not in view of the enemy's casualties."

Along the DMZ the enemy has his shortest route of maneuver and supply for battle, staging directly from North Vietnam. Three North Vietnamese divisions are poised along or inside the zone already, and elements

But the Marines turned the enemy bunkers at Khe Sanh to smother with artillery and bombs and seized Hills 861 and 831 North and South, forcing North Vietnamese regulars to abandon a build-up representing five months' work.

Three Injured In "Hippie" Riots In N. Y.

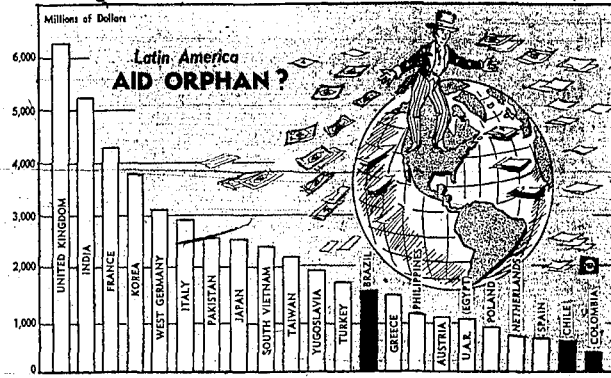

NEW YORK (AP) — About 200 "hippies" and "beatniks" took over a Manhattan park Tuesday and rioted when club-swinging police broke up their wild, long-haired demonstration. Some 35 were carried bodily to patrol wagons.

Three persons, including a policeman, were reported injured.

Amid the uproar in Tompkins Square Park, girls and women among the bearded males chanted at police: "You know we love you!"

The demonstrators, some voicing protests against the war in Vietnam, continued to beat bongos, drums and strum guitars and mandolins in defiance of police orders to disperse. They forced human chains and sat down on the grass.

"We're here simply to prove we can be here on the grass," one demonstrator told newspapermen. "They won't let us sit or sing in the park."

AT THE PUNTA DEL Este hemisphere summit conference, Ecuador's President Osorio Arce ruffled otherwise harmonious proceedings by sharply criticizing American aid to Latin America as insufficient. Arce points to figures showing that only three countries rank among aid recipients of aid during the period 1945-1965.

Book Worm

WEBSTER GROVES, Mo. (AP)—Sixth grader Charles Watt, 12, found 15 errors in a book about Christopher Columbus, and now he's 325 richer.

The student at the Edgar Road School in Webster Groves, a St. Louis suburb, took his teacher seriously when she advised the class to question things they read.

When Charles told the teacher, Miss Jean Smith, that he had noticed some errors in the book's publisher, she checked him out. Sure enough, the errors existed.

"Not topographical errors," said Miss Smith. "There were wrong historical facts, like having an incorrect name for one of the three ships."

Teacher and student checked further and came up with 15 errors. The book's publisher, Dack, came a check for $25 and a note that the book has been taken out of circulation.

VACATION and OUTDOOR SPORTS EDITION 1967

Winding through Southern Idaho and Magic Valley like a snake is the Snake River. Cutting a deep gorge as it winds through the state, this canyon also is known as the "Grand Canyon of Idaho."

The aerial photo on the left shows the river as it winds across Magic Valley and two of the many dams along the river. The two dams are Shoshone Falls and Twin Falls.

Shoshone Falls, higher than Niagara Falls, plunges over a basalt horseshoe rim nearly 1,000 feet wide and drops 212 feet. At the bottom of the falls is an electrohydraulic power plant. A power plant also is located at the bottom of Twin Falls.

Parks for picnics or outings are available to the public at both falls as well as boating docks.

The Snake River in this area also provides recreation and irrigation water for agricultural uses in this area.

Hundreds of residents use the river for either fishing or water skiing or just plain boating. Two of the best water skiing areas in Southern Idaho are at Shoshone Falls and Twin Falls.

Shoshone Falls is about four miles from the city of Twin Falls and Twin Falls is another two miles up stream.

Water from Snake River is diverted at Milner Dam, 22 miles above Twin Falls, for the thousands of acres of fertile cropland. Gross farm income for Twin Falls County alone is close to $50 million annually and it is but one of the counties included in the irrigation system.

When water is not being diverted for irrigation uses, great abundance of water goes over Shoshone Falls in a majestic display.

Truly, the Snake River, with its parks and sights along it, is one of the top rivers in the state.

Boating, Fishing, Hiking . . .

appeals to you most—the rock of a boat on a river filled with trout, hiking along a trail, backpacking, a fun day out with family or maybe a peaceful snooze in the lap of nature—enjoy your leisure time in your own way. This year, the Times-News' annual Vacation and Outdoor Sports Edition has everything to help you and your friends and relatives enjoy a more lively living, more relaxing ease on your vacation.

It's vacation time in one of the greatest recreational areas in the world. No matter what you have in mind . . . Southcentral Idaho has it all.

This edition has stories, features and pictures of Southcentral Idaho's famed recreation areas.

Use Care With Fires In Forests

National Forest visitors are urged to be careful with their use of fire during the 1967 outdoor season.

Though the past winter was long and wet, Forest Service officers caution that additional fuel has been created by increased growth of grass and brush.

Man caused fires can be kept to a minimum if Forest visitors remember that fires are frequently caused by careless habits. All too typical are the instances of a driver flicking a cigarette from a car window, man attempting to grind out a cigarette in a punky log, a camper leaving a fire without fully extinguishing it, or a cyclist using a trail bike without an adequate spark arrester.

When using your National Forest this year, take along a shovel, axe, bucket and lots of common sense. Everyone loses when there is a forest fire, so use your National Forests wisely and protect them.

Reaching Independence Takes Effort

BURLEY — If you like to hike or ride horseback and enjoy off-the-main-trail excursions, go to Independence Lakes in Cassia County.

The only way to reach Independence Lakes is by hiking or riding horseback about three miles from the Boy Scout Camp. The camp is a short drive from Burley south to the Oakley-Etha road which is a good gravel road that will lead visitors to the Boy Scout Camp where autos, truck or trailers may be parked.

The rest of the way to the lakes to enjoy excellent fishing is gained only by riding horseback or hiking. The lakes are above the other, situated by streams between. The smallest (upper) lake has a small back area edge all summer long. All of the lakes are filled by melting snow. The lakes are crystal clear nestled in a volcanic crater.

For overnight camping and fishing trips all supplies must be packed in to the lakes. However the trip is one that will be worth the time.

Fish and game department personnel stock Independence Lakes with rainbow trout in massive bags inflated with oxygen. An insulated pack box will hold about 1,000 fish. Oxygen in the bag filled with fish will last over 12 hours.

The fish boxes are hauled by truck to the Boy Scout camp where they are loaded and placed on a "mountain lake fish truck" (a packhorse) for the three-day trip to the lakes. The packhorse carries 18,000 fish packed in the boxes.

The trout in Independence lakes are waiting for the fisherman who will take the time and effort to reach the lake shores for a fishing and camping trip.

Baseball Is Attraction At Shoshone

SHOSHONE — No doubt the greatest single activity of residents of Shoshone each summer is in connection with the summer recreation program, sponsored jointly by the City and American Legion, and the project is playing ball.

There are usually three and sometimes more teams, with the Little League, Fox West League and Pony League as well as the older boys in the Legion team.

All interested boys in the area are invited to participate, and many of them do, even at ten-der-preschool ages.

With this variety of ages of youngsters, there naturally involves much adult and even parental interest and care. Many families make a trip to the ball park as part of their evening activity. There (there is transportation) in provide to neighboring towns when contests are set up.

Countless persons have donated their time in the past, coaching particularly, but some continue year after year to be the backbone of the project, it seems.

Robert Haddock, Wally Burk et, Frank Garrett and others seem to be names heard again and again with the coming and going of the seasons in connection with this particular project.

The city budget an annual each year for recreation and helps with some of the necessities with the Legion Post as well as by buying some of the equipment also.

The city tennis court and recreation field is maintained as part of the summer program, also, according to Mayor Victor Buzzup, who states plans are under way to enlarge and improve the tennis court this spring.

The mayor said the tennis court area would be enlarged and the current work done through cooperation of the city employees, in the hope the area could be used for a skating rink.

Camas Rod And Gun Club Takes Annual Trail Rides

Every year, members of the Camas Rod and Gun Club sponsor a trail ride into the headwaters of the South Fork of the Boise River.

This is a family affair, with the entire family participating in the two-day ride. Families from throughout Magic Valley participate, along with Forest Service and Fish and Game personnel.

Theme of this affair might very well be "Ride the High Country." Usually one day of the ride is spent in the headwaters of Bear Creek and Goat Creek. Another is spent near the headwaters of Ross Fork or Johnson Creek, all tributaries of the South Fork of the Boise River.

Each rider brings his own horse and steaming gear. The Rod and Gun Club hires a cook and buys all the food, the cost of which is covered by the fee charged each rider. For those with large families, a family rate is available. The food is excellent and everybody enjoys the friendly atmosphere of the outdoors.

The ride begins at the mouth of Bear Creek on Friday evening. After the riders assemble and ready their horses and gear for the early start the next morning. At this time they get their first taste of outdoor cooking provided by Mrs. Rex O'Neill, Fairfield.

Everybody gathers around the campfire and introduces themselves. The events of the next day's ride are discussed and maps are brought out to show those unfamiliar with the area just where the ride will take them.

This is rough, spectacular country and it takes a person with real knowledge of the area to guide the group. This knowledge is furnished by Jack Byram, Gooding, and the Smoky Mountain Ranch located just below Bear Creek on the South Fork of the Boise River. He knows every inch of this country and is always willing to lead the group.

The next morning, with Jack Byram in the lead, the group starts out bright and early.

Last year they rode up Bear Creek, across the head of Willow Creek, to the head of the South Fork of Ross Fork. At the many mountain passes, stops were made to view the Sawtooths, Pioneers, Trinitites, Soling, Hite the riders assemble

Attractions In Salmon Forest Listed

SALMON — The Forest Service working with Lemhi County extended a wagon road from Gibbonsville into Montana. That was in 1907.

That old wagon road now is U. S. Highway 93 passing through the "Salmon National Forest" on its way from Mexico to Alaska.

A visitor center is located on Low-Trail-Pass-to-provide information to the many visitors. The beauty spots and the recreational activities in this national forest are numerous and worth extra effort.

Forest trails lead into the Big Horn Crags within the Idaho Idaho Primitive Area. Jagged peaks and mirror-clear lakes make any trip memorable. Commercial outfitters and guides are available for trips to all parts of the Salmon National Forest.

For 155 miles the Middle Fork is possible only by floatboats. Few trails enter this back country, and motor vehicles and motor boats are not allowed. This is some of the finest fast water in the United States and the fishing is unsurpassed. Commercial guided trips are available.

The 155 miles of the Salmon River from the town of North Fork to Riggin's offer adventure to all. Float trips in rubber boats or flat-bottomed barges are scheduled by local outfitters throughout the summer.

The skilled boatman can negotiate these tricky waters in a jiffy. Several colorful characters choose to live on old patented mining claims along the river. New facilities have been built

SHEEP WAGON AND HERDER plod along near the headwaters of the Salmon River on the Sawtooth Valley Ranger District, Sawtooth National Forest. Flocks of sheep move up to summer pasture in the high lands early in the summer and return in the fall. A common sight to motorists on some of Idaho's roads, are the flock, wagon and sheep dogs. (U. S. Forest Service photo) and more are being planned on the Salmon Forest. The relaxing feeling prevails for those wishing to sit back and enjoy the changing scene of the Salmon National Forest.

1937 Hunting Trip Via Airplane Recalled

(Editor's Note: The late Lionel Dean was a pioneer aviator in Idaho. His wife, Thelma, is a vivid chronicler of his days of mountain flying.)

By THELMA ANNE DEAN
Twin Falls

People of today climb into their airplanes with guns, ammunition, sometimes sleeping bags and small tents and away they go to the Primitive Area of Idaho to hunt for deer, elk or goat. Now no one thinks about it being anything but a normal routine way to go hunting.

But, it wasn't that simple in 1937. For several reasons it wasn't so. In the first place, there were not many airplanes then; there were very few air strips in the Primitive Area, and most people just never thought about going hunting by plane.

Since my husband, Lionel Dean, had bought his first plane in 1928, by 1937 he was an avid pilot for any kind of flying. At this early date, his plane was a three-place open cockpit biplane, powered by a water-cooled 150 horsepower Hispano-Suiza engine. He and a regular pilot, who had an Eaglehawk airplane also, decided to fly up in the mountains to hunt deer. They asked their wives to go along.

The deer season opened Oct. 5 that year of 1937. On Oct. 4, early in the morning, we four left our home airport, Twin Falls, in the two planes. We headed for Milt Hood's ranch on the middle fork of the Salmon River at the mouth of Thomas Creek in the Primitive Area of Idaho. The airstrip was about 225 auto miles north of Twin Falls. Except with an automobile, you could only get within about 25 miles of the strip. Those last 25 miles or so had to be packed on horseback not a good day and a half trip it was. Or, if your group were extremely "hardy" souls, you could pack your equipment on your backs and hike up hills and down valleys until you reached the place you wanted to go. Therefore, the easiest way was to fly in.

At this particular point where Thomas Creek empties into the middle fork of the Salmon River, a strip 1,800 feet long and 100 feet wide had been cleared for an emergency field by the forest service.

We used this field to land on. The elevation there was 4,400 feet in a canyon with plenty of mountains around. The middle fork of the Salmon River makes a sharp bend across the downstream end of the air strip and the other end of the strip terminates at the base of a hill about 200 feet high. This, then, was a one-way landing strip and with mountain air being what it is, up and down air currents changing every few minutes, a pilot had better "know his stuff" before trying to get down and land on that narrow and short field.

From the time we left the airport, five miles south of Twin Falls, flew north over the deep, gigantic Snake River Canyon that we could see winding its way across the country for miles; over acres and acres of black lava beds and volcanic ash from Bellevue, Halcie, Ketchum and the newly created Sun Valley. Galena Summit, we had to climb up to 10,000 feet to fly over; the length of the climb of the lovely Stanley Basin with the tall, jagged Sawtooth Mountains on the south and the lovely Red Fish Lakes gleaming in the early morning sun; over Cape Horn, Vanhook Summit, and Seal Farn; then down into the canyon to the small air strip by the wooded ranch-to-land, just two hours had elapsed. It was all such a beautiful sight.

Weight is such a vital factor in an airplane anytime and flying out of the mountains with game is a real problem. The animal has to be dressed down fine to get it the gun, pilot and passengers all out at the same time.

The fellows had hung on deer on the propeller of each plane and we went to work. Believe it or not, it was fun and certainly something new and different for us. We had expected to fly home that afternoon and if we had these two deer dressed and cut up when the fellows came in at noon, they would have to dress only the two they shot that morning, then load up and pull out.

The joke was on Inez and me, however, for when they returned at noon, they had no deer. It hadn't been a storm of deer, but a single deer, a single deer, a single deer.

Immediately after lunch, we took four horses and started for the high mountain tops. I said horses. By that time of day, there was left in the barn only three horses and one mule. We drew straws to see who would ride the mule and I drew the losing straw -- or so I thought. Before the day was over, I was mighty glad I had drawn the losing straw. We rode our horses and mules to the top of a certain high mountain ridge about four miles from camp in about two and one-half hours. We quietly walked from 4:15 p.m. to 5:45 p.m. when all of a sudden, two deer appeared on the hill side opposite us. Lionel shot and killed one but the men had to climb somewhat higher to get the other one.

It was just dusk when they bolted to us to bring the horses. We could hardly tear ourselves away from the lovely sunset scene. All around to the west and north, the horizon was a lovely soft blue; fading into a deep rose and lighter orchid shade.

To the east and south, the skyline just above the mountain peaks was a vivid blue. With the profile of the mountain peaks for more than a quarter of a mile to where the fellows were, the silhouette made the waiting with the last deer. By now, the mule headed you say! I loved the time they loaded the deer!

We couldn't see a thing more than a few inches from our eyes. In this pitch darkness, we started down the mountain side to the trail.

Of course, we walked down and led our horses. And here it was where my mule was a honey. Time and time again I stumbled on rocks, sage brush, step in a hole or just plain slip down. They had made a wood fire and the pungent smell of lodge pole pine and Douglas fir brought me back to us.

The heavenly fragrance of frying bacon and coffee made us remember that it was supper time and that we were a long way from camp.

The grandest part of the whole trip was the night trip down the trail. Inez and I had zig-zagged the horses back and forth up the profile of the mountain peaks for more than a quarter of a mile to where the fellows were, the silhouette made the waiting with the last deer. By now, the mule headed you say! I loved the time they loaded the deer!

Way down at the foot of the mountain, the middle fork of the Salmon River flowed lazily by; and here and there we could see groups of quaking aspens, trembling in the slight breeze, with their vivid orange, red and gold autumn colors.

Not far down the mountain side from us were three hunters who had stopped on the trail to get themselves some supper. They had made a wood fire and the pungent smell of lodge pole pine and Douglas fir brought me back to us.

Many Visit Back Country Via Airplanes

Many areas on the Challis National Forest and adjoining forests are not accessible by roads, thus some visitors to the remote back country such as the Idaho Primitive Area travel by airplane.

Travel permits people with limited time to visit and enjoy the beautiful mountain country of Central Idaho. Campers, fishermen, hunters, and sightseers fly into remote areas during the milder seasons of the year.

Some airfields are located on private lands, others are maintained by the Forest Service primarily for National Forest Administration. Very few of the fields are designed to accommodate anything other than small planes. Many of these airfields should be used only for emergency landings by inexperienced pilots.

All pilots who are not experienced in mountain flying or who are not familiar with a particular airfield should seek dual instruction from a qualified pilot who knows the airfield before attempting to land and takeoff at any back country field.

Back country airfields are listed in the Idaho Airport Directory published by the Idaho State Department of Aeronautics. Pilot permits for the Idaho back country should check the Directory for Do's and Don'ts of Mountain Flying. Most air accidents result from pilots putting themselves in "a situation beyond their flying experience."

Salmon Forest Offers Much To Visitors

SALMON — The Salmon National Forest is situated in central Idaho with the impressive crests of the Bitterroot Mountains to the west and the Idaho-Montana border.

Elevations vary from 2,400 feet at the mouth of Horse Creek to the Salmon River Canyon to 11,000 feet at the top of Big Peak near Salmon River.

The Lemhi River, Middle and North Forks of the Snake River, Camas and Panther Creeks are all major branches of the Salmon River which flows to the west.

The geology of this area is as interesting as it is complex. Precambrian formations containing quartz, limestone, and shale can be found on the east side near Leavenworth.

To further complicate things, a lava flow of the Challis volcanics blocked the Salmon River nearly two million years ago. Although this flow did not divert the Salmon River, it did create an extensive fresh water lake.

This lake was responsible for leveling the Salmon and Lemhi valleys. Eventually the detrital Salmon cut through the lava dam leaving sedimentary rocks and fish fossils as evidence of the lake.

Gold, silver and lead deposits are by-products of the formation of this land. They were the ores that originally attracted the miners. Today people still search for gold and silver, and in addition, cobalt, molybdenum and thorium are on the want list.

Some areas are well known to the "rockhound fraternity" for their desirable agate and other mineral specimens. Scuba divers with their ingenious "river bottom vacuum" search the crevasses for scattered gold nuggets. This, like gold panning, is a hobby with hope for a small reward.

AERIAL VIEW OF Camp Perkins, owned and operated by the Utah-Idaho district of the Lutheran Laymen's League, lies near Alturas Lake in Sawtooth Valley, 42 miles north of Ketchum. The camp was named by Mrs. John Reynolds.

Camping Experiences Are Valued By Area Churches

BURLEY — The value of church camping experiences is growing in importance for church members throughout Magic Valley.

One of the many church camps throughout Magic Valley is Camp Perkins, owned and operated by Lutheran Laymen's League of Utah-Idaho District, located 42 miles north of Ketchum, near Alturas Lake Junction in Sawtooth Valley.

An outdoor setting with church leaders emphasize, enhances the value of creative fellowship and worship experiences.

The dream of Camp Perkins became a reality on May 10, 1955, when the lease for the camp site was signed with the U.S. Forest Service. The first planning and study of the camp was done during the summer of 1954 by church members.

During a rainstorm with a snow-flake added here and there, 125 Lutherans braved the storm for ground conservation services. May 30, 1955, on the spot where the assembly hall now stands.

With men of the U.S. Forest Service, the camp committee joined forces to plot the camp site, June 14, 1955.

On July 4, 1955, the groundbreaking ceremony for construction work ended. After a bulldozer made a road into the camping area, sites for cabins were leveled. A logging operation began with hauling of the logs to the mill where they were sawed on three sides leaving the timber approximately 8 inches by 6 inches.

Then the logs were hauled back to the campsite and the bark peeled. The first year more than 8,000 lineal feet of dry logs were cut and hauled to the mill.

The first building to take shape with the pouring of the cement in July, 1955, was the north restroom and apple tank. At the close of the first season four cabins and the restroom were completed.

In 1956 came the big push to build the assembly hall. The decision to purchase logs already cut and sawed reduced labor needs. One day 11 trucks were used for gravel hauling. The largest turnout of help was 138 people for pouring foundations for their desirable agate and other mineral specimens. Scuba divers with their ingenious "river bottom vacuum" search the crevasses for scattered gold nuggets. This, like gold panning, is a hobby with hope for a small reward.

ing lake water up the hill to the campsite. Water samples tested by State Health Laboratory always turned out pure, but reluctance by some to drink water from a lake brought pressure for a hand dug well. In 1960 the dug well was completed with an adequate supply of cold water, but the water contained a high mineral content and was declared by the State Health Laboratory to be impure.

Then a well driller was obtained and located a well some distance away from the mineral water with the final result of an abundance of pure, cold water.

The camp was named through a contest sponsored by the District Lutheran Laymen's League with Mrs. John (Louise) Reynolds, Nampa, selected as winner with the name "Camp Perkins."

The organized camping period starts in June and extends through the latter part of August.

Prof. Karl Pitzker, St. John's College, Winfield, Kan., will be camp manager this year. Most of the individual camps will have new dates for a greater variety of programs.

In addition to the regular Lutheran Laymen's Music Ministry, piano, seven and eighth grade, fifth and sixth grade, confirmation, Golden Age, Walther League, and Lutheran Women's Missionary League camps, four open camping periods have been scheduled for families and their guests and a Walther League Officers camp and an Aid Association.

Rock Hunting Is Popular Summer Fun

SHOSHONE — Hunting for rocks can be interesting as a summer recreation. Among choice spots to hunt are Carey, Muddy Summit, Fish Creek and Bruneau desert and canyon.

To be found are nodules, banded agate, crystals agate, petrified wood, opal, Jasper and desert wood.

The has around Magic reservoir also yield patterned Jasper and petrified wood and on a small hill west of the reservoir a small amount of chert and monstrose has been found. Timmerman hill produces a black and white petrified wood.

The Bruneau desert, too, is interesting from the geological standpoint. One of it was the shoreline of a lake and wood, pine cones and fossils of all kinds drifted into caves later to be petrified.

Sawtooth Mountains One Of Earth's Most Rugged

One of the most rugged ranges on earth, the Sawtooth Mountains rise from verdant forests with craggy slopes and snow-filled cirques.

How were they formed? The geologic history of the Sawtooth Mountains begins with the intrusion of the Idaho batholith, which crumpled out over some 60,000 square miles about 110 million years ago.

The Idaho batholith consists predominantly of granodiorite, a rock somewhat like granite. The most abundant preserved sedimentary rocks in this region are found east and south of Stanley Basin and include the Milligan formation, shale, and the Wood River formation, quartzite and subordinate limestone. These rock units are several thousands of feet in total thickness. They were deposited on the slowly sinking bottom of a sea that covered much of Idaho during Paleozoic time.

The rock of the Sawtooth batholith is predominantly pink. The northern margin of this batholith lies just north of Heyburn Mountain, which is prominent in the view seen from Redfish Lake. The southern margin of the batholith is readily seen from the batholith lies near the bottom of the valley of Yellowbelly Lake Creek.

Much later than the intrusion of the Sawtooth batholith, perhaps not more than one million years ago, a large northwest-trending fault, ruptures in the earth's crust, came into being, and the rocks underlying the Sawtooth Range were strongly uplifted. Two major faults largely responsible for the elevation of the range are the Montezuma fault, near Atlanta, and the Sawtooth fault, which extends along the northeast margin of the range.

The Sawtooth Range has been strongly glaciated during the last million years or so, and thereby sculptured into deep valleys and high, jagged peaks from which the range gets its name.

Glacial deposits comprise an important element in the scenery of Stanley Basin. Large lakes such as Redfish Lake and Alturas Lake, and several smaller ones, occupy basins formed near the termini of glaciers. Most of the low, tree-covered ridges, seen when looking west from Highway 93 near Fourth of July Creek, south of Stanley, are the remains of glacial moraines.

Higher in the glaciated valleys, within the range, and in the heads of many of them, numerous lakes occur in basins punched out by moving ice. The last major glacial ice in this range may have existed until as recently as 10,000 years ago.

Two patches of glacial ice,

Ways For Vacationing At Home And Liking It Given

While a vacation at home is delightful for most men, women often have to be urged to give it a try. The main trick is to change the normal routine so that the lady of the house is not stuck on the same old round of cooking and housework. Here are suggestions for a memorable home vacation:

1. Get in the right mood: remind yourself that you are on vacation, that you're entitled to a rest, and that it's not sinful to leave the bed unmade.
2. Get some help: hire a teenager for two weeks to help with the children.
3. Stay out of the kitchen: on vacation, you're entitled to go out to dinner every night, go on picnics (sandwiches from the delicatessen) or take a supper tray to bed.
4. Install central air conditioning, in your home ... a treat you can enjoy for many years to come, and pay for in easy stages, if you like.

If you have a bar-air furnace which heats the house efficiently in winter, it's possible to attach an air conditioning unit to pump cool, clean air through the same ducts which provide winter heating. A unit such as General Electric's Quik-Match has only three parts: the condenser section, which is a box designed to set outdoors; the cooler coil, which is attached to the furnace, and the tubing connecting the two. The components are factory-sealed, and need only to be hooked up—saving on installation costs.

With air conditioning installed, the routing of housework instantly becomes easier. The house stays cleaner, and there's less need for constant vacuuming.

5. Streamline the house: get rid of the clutter so the place will look cool as it feels, and so the housework is cut to the bone. If possible, get your teenager to come, and pay for in easy stages, if you like.

6. Pamper yourself: It's your vacation — to have breakfast in bed, to wear nightgowns, to have manicures — even hairdressing appointments — if you're really some woman who doesn't feel they're on vacation. They're in high heels, others prefer the bathing suit approach. Either way, try to dress differently from your usual at-home attire.

7. Schedule a few special occasions: the theater, an amusement park, an overnight visit to "mom." 8. Take the kids on a picnic, or fishing trip.

9. Catch up on your entertaining: you can actually enjoy a couple of well-planned dinner parties in your newly cooled home — especially if that solid-gold teenager keeps the kids out of your hair.

10. Concentrate on relaxing. There's no law against reading.

10 YEARS SERVING MAGIC VALLEY

Man Lived On Salmon 8,000 Years Ago

SALMON — Eight thousand years ago men were living along the Salmon River.

What drew these primitive people to the rock-ribbed canyons of the Salmon?

And once there, why did they stay? Was it the abundance of fish, animals, and other food — the protection afforded by the rock cliffs of the canyon — or the moderate winters?

All are possible answers. Evidence of their culture, now called the Butteront Culture, can still be found.

These primitive men were the forefathers of the northern Shoshoni Indians. The Shoshoni were instrumental in spreading the Spanish-introduced horse to the Flathead, Nezperce and Blackfoot tribes to the north and therefore have been termed the "horse brokers" of the West.

Most early-day trappers and settlers called these Indians the "Snakes." Captain Clark in the Lewis and Clark Journals, calls the name "Snake" originated from the ability of these Indians to make snakes.

One early-day student of the Shoshoni has a different opinion. He says the name "Snake" was the result of faulty communication. The Indian word Shoshoni can be broadly translated "weavers of grass lodges."

The early white men mistook the hideous sign of a snake to mean snake instead of weavers. It was from this band of Shoshoni that Sacajawea was captured as a girl, and these were the Indians that Captain Lewis met soon after crossing the Continental Divide.

Many archaeological relics, such as pictographs, are present in the Salmon National Forest. These relics provide valuable information by which the history of the "early people" can be traced.

In 1960, Idaho State University, in cooperation with the Forest Service, uncovered and dated evidence of habitation 8,200 years ago.

RIVER DRAINAGE LISTED The Amazon River drains an area of 3,500,000 square miles.

ONE OF MOST popular outdoor recreation activities in Sawtooth National Forest is camping. Major recreation areas located throughout the forest are Howell Canyon and Rock Creek Canyon on the Minidoka division, and along the South Boise River, Upper Big Wood River and Sawtooth Valley on the Sawtooth division. (U.S. Forest Service photo)

Camping On Deer Creek Excellent

HAILEY — Family camping along Deer Creek, a few miles northwest of Hailey, is highly recommended.

Deer Creek is one of the lower elevation streams running into the Big Wood River.

At the Sawtooth National Forest boundary is located the Clarendon Hot Springs. These springs have been privately developed into swimming and bathing facilities and are open to the public for a small fee.

Upstream on Deer Creek on the National Forest are a number of unimproved campsites and two developed camping areas with toilets, tables and fireplaces. There is no charge for using these camping facilities.

Fishing is good in the willow-lined stream. A number of beaver ponds are found in late summer. Several species of fish, including rainbow trout, are found in the stream. Children fishing with bait, and willing to climb through some of the willow thickets, have been catching nice sized trout.

Firewood is available from the timbered hillsides adjacent to Deer Creek. Campers should have a shovel and axe with their party during the fire season.

ANGEL FALLS HIGHEST World's highest waterfall. The Angel Falls in Venezuela. The falls have a total height of 2,212 feet, more than 1,000 feet higher than any other known falls.

Basic Precautions For Overexposure Are Listed

Water sports are an important part of fun in the sun for active-minded women this summer. Whether it's boating, water skiing, swimming, skin and scuba diving or surfing, there seems to be something for every interest.

All of these aquatic activities have a common denominator constantly, they are a "must" for rest periods in the boat or on the beach.

1. Take along a pair of sunglasses to protect your eyes against glare from sunlight and water. Even though you may not be wearing them constantly, they are a "must" for rest periods in the boat or on the beach.

2. Never look directly at the sun's rays, even while wearing dark glasses, because retinal burns are a possibility.

3. During those breaks on the beach, don't read or write. Bright sunlight can produce swelling and harsh lines around the eyes, while glare conditions can cause additional strain on the eyes.

4. Avoid swimming under water with your eyes open. Water often contains salts, chlorine or other mineral elements that are irritating to the eyes.

5. Your kit should include a skin lotion on warm sands, cream, some tissues; and a handy plastic squeeze bottle of nearest doctor, in case medical eye lotion. Eye drops will soothe irritations, should become necessary.

6. Wear some form of head covering, preferably a visored cap, when you are out of the water. A wide-brimmed beach hat is recommended when you are on warm sands.

7. Know the location of the nearest doctor, in case medical eye drops will soothe irritations, should become necessary.

8. Water sports fans who observe a few basic precautions will avoid the ever-present hazards of overexposure to spray, sun and wind.

Notch Butte At Shoshone Has History

SHOSHONE — Although the first thing to meet the human eye near Notch Butte Lookout station, south of Shoshone, is the station building, there are a number of interesting things to visit in the general area.

The station is manned only during the fire season by the Bureau of Land Management personnel. The season usually runs from about June 1 to Sept. 30.

The butte is not high, but it towers above the flat desert and probably was used as a lookout spot for both Indians and whites long before the station was built there in 1941.

The building measures about 14 feet by 14 feet and contains as much window glass as it does wood.

Probably of volcanic origin, the butte has figured prominently in the history of southern Idaho. Reference to it is given in an old Indian legend about the area.

From its height an Indian brave, with his stolen bride, watched as his pursuers closed the gap to freedom. Rather than be returned as captives he and his bride faced almost certain death by taking to the still hot lava flows that were creeping down from the Craters of the Moon.

The old stagecoach trail from the town of Shoshone to Shoshone Falls wound close to the butte base and there is an unverified story that a cave just east of the butte was used as a hiding place for some gold bars stolen from the Oregon Short Line train between Shoshone and Minidoka.

There are a number of caves near the butte. Rattlesnake Cave can be reached by taking the first road below the butte and going east one mile. The road can be negotiated, travel is not recommended.

The cave is almost 25 feet long. Caves have shortening their length considerably. The entrance is eight to 10 feet high, but through the first section narrows down rather rapidly. It is possible to crawl through a passage to another cavern.

Some people of Shoshone feel the cave was deliberately blasted to prevent children from becoming lost in it. They even say the cave once wound to Snake River.

The walls of the second cave contain names of persons who have visited there. Dates go back to 1909.

The cave is warm in winter and cool in summer, too cold for comfort even on hot days. The BLM lookout on top of the butte serves as the central fire dispatching center for the Wood River Grazing District.

Once a fire is spotted, instruments in the lookout station pinpoint it and a shortwave radio gets cross readings and reports the fire.

Notch Butte for many years has served with the Shoshone office as a "nerve center" for the fire dispatching and other communications for the surrounding districts. Weather information is taken there also.

Balanced Rock Is Scenic Wonder

BUHL — One of the scenic wonders to be found in Twin Falls County is Balanced Rock located just 16 miles southwest of Buhl, or six miles west of Castleford.

This balloon shaped rock is 40 feet high and rests upon a small block of igneous stone that is only one foot by one and one-half feet by three feet in dimension.

The base of the rock, however, has been reinforced by concrete because of efforts of early pioneers to try and topple it over.

LAKE'S DEPTH LISTED — Lake Erie has an average depth of only 58 feet, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

USED TO BE A PLAQUE—now just gaping holes and tortured rock where vandals defaced Bathub Rock, one of the unique outcroppings of granite at the City of Rocks 37 miles south of Bury. District Ranger Marilyn Stock, Sawtooth National Forest, said other vandals in the recreation area included the use of spray paints to spell out graduating students' names and dates which deface the names of pioneers coming over the California Trail. (Times-News photo)

Little Wood Reached By Trail Bikes

HAILEY — Trail bike enthusiasts or hikers can now reach the excellent fishing on the Upper Little Wood River over the Long Gulch Trail.

During 1966, the Sawtooth National Forest maintained the Long Gulch Trail for use by riders.

Intergates and the trail bikes. Access to the end of the trail is on the pass between the Little Wood River and Cooper Creek where Mormon Hill road crosses the divide.

This area is reached via Carey and Muldon, past the Garfield Guard Station. Maps are available from the District Ranger at Hailey.

The Little Wood River is a scenic back country area with few people and good fishing. Access is limited along the river on the National Forest. Trail bike riders are cautioned to have a small shovel and axe during the summer fire season.

City Of Rocks May Lose Historical Value If Vandalism Is To Continue

BURLEY — Pioneers, crossing the sagebrush desolation near Burley on the way to greener lands in California, etched their names with axe grease on the outcroppings of stone that form the City of Rocks.

Today, that very obsession of leaving one's name for posterity has caused widespread vandalism in the recreation area.

Rocks, bearing the names of pioneers passing through, are being defaced with paint spelling out the names of local youngsters and the years they will graduate. It seems to be a yearly ritual for the graduating young people to hit the City of Rocks and inscribe everything within reach.

The Sawtooth National Forest, which owns part of the land on which the recreation area is situated, has expressed concern that the area may lose much of its value if the painting continues.

Other vandalism, not quite so innocent of malice, is the theft and defacement of a plaque which was affixed to Bathub Rock, one of the best known of the stone outcroppings.

The area is partly situated on the Burley Ranger District and on areas owned by the Bureau of Land Management, the state and private individuals.

It occupies approximately 60 acres or one mile square. Besides great outcroppings of rock forming domes, spires and peaks, the area includes a canyon approximately 100 feet deep with such unusual formations as a natural bridge.

Much of the interest in the unusual recreation area stems from its place in the history of the United States. The area was once a landmark for pioneers traveling along the California Trail. Legend also gives the area a place in the Alamo massacre which reportedly involved the deaths of 300 Missouri travelers, by attacking Indians.

An area that can afford a great deal of sightseeing and recreation for Magic Valley residents, the City of Rocks may be further developed by the Sawtooth National Forest.

Further information on the recreation area may be obtained from District Ranger Marilyn Stock, Sawtooth National Forest, Burley.

HUNTING YIELDS HIGH
BOISE — Idaho hunters harvest a yearly total of over 15,000 elk and 70,000 deer along with big game trophy animals.

Take along a dependable float for each diver. Device and use with big game trophy animals a system of hand signals for such as bighorn sheep, mountain goats, moose and antelope.

Safety Rules For Divers Are Listed

Use the buddy system. Always dive with a companion.

Buy equipment with safety reefs and get compressed air for scuba diving at recognized skin diving supply outlets.

When using air tanks limit operations to a maximum depth of 130 feet. Know and observe the rates of ascent given in the U.S. Navy Decompression Tables to prevent air embolism and the bends.

Wear skin diving — without air tanks — don't try to stay under overlong. A lack of fresh air for too long can cost a swimmer his judgment.

More People View Galena Summit In Month Now Than In Years Since 1824

By DOROTHY POVEY
Times-News Correspondent
HAILEY — On Sept. 18, 1967, when Alexander Ross and his companions stood on that height of land dividing two great valleys as yet unnamed, in a state not yet christened and a Territory unborn, the grandeur of the Sawtooths was already as old as eternity.
Passing this way but once, these men made no mention in their records of the beauty of the view spread before them. Trappers from the Hudson Bay Co., these men considered beauty the least of the lustre of fur from the pelts of otter, beaver, wolf, fox and ermine.
It will never be known how many men paused, in the space of time between 1824 and 1860, when the first prospectors crossed over the "Wood River Pass" to gaze at summer's fleecy clouds drifting lazily over the great valley which this morning the infant stream of the mighty Salmon River.

Neither will it be known how many men stopped, awe-stricken, as they watched the sudden marchers of the sky, carrying the hatred of an inferno in their hearts, unleash their fury on these spires of rock, daring to intrude their domain.
It is safe to say, however, that during all those years not as many prospectors viewed the scene of beauty laid before them from Galena Overlook as did in one month's time last summer.

To travel over the heavily-timbered 6,700-foot-high summit which divided the sources of the "River Malheur" on the south and the "Tom-Ap-Fah" (Big Bear River) on the north, the Indian and the trapper needed only space for his body to pass between the trees. The prospectors, if he was prosperous, needed enough room for his heavily-laden burro.

As the years passed miners from the "Gold Belt" (located between what was no longer called "Malheur," but Big Wood River and the Camas Prairie to the west) traveled more and more back and forth over the "Pass" to the Boise Basin and Warren Diggings.
Within the next 10 years rich silver strikes brought a rush of prospectors to the headwaters of the Big Fish River, which the white man called the Salmon River, and the Big Wood River, before long there was talk of a wagon road. The first road, as such, was completed in the fall of 1860. A teamster would think of traveling the steep grades without first assuring himself that the heavy rough-locks and brakes on his wagon were in good working order.

Perhaps the men who laboriously maneuvered the heavy loads of freight over Galena Summit had no time to look for beauty. Closer to them, on a hot summer day, was their sweat, mixed with dust billowing up from the deep wagon ruts.

During the 1920's a two-lane gravel road was built, over the mountain. The drive over the summit became a popular one, although not to be attempted unless the engine of the car was a powerful one and in perfect condition and one was sure the brakes would hold. Some folks, who couldn't make it otherwise, would buckle up the steep grades.
Switchbacks were many and sharp. One figure 8 can still be seen from Galena Overlook.

True, the fir, pine and spruce trees alongside the road were gray with dust, and any car making the trip was completely saturated with the fine dirt. Still the ride was considered one of the most scenic in the area.
Truckers descending the Salmon River side forced large logs behind their loads, as no brakes would hold on the steep grade. Some of these "brake-logs" may still be seen near the foot of the old road.

The paved, two-lane highway of today over Galena summit was constructed in 1955-1956. Arnie Herry, who for many years was ranger at Sawtooth Valley, conceived the idea locating a vantage-point about three-fourths of a mile down from Galena summit on the Salmon river drainage.

From here the vast expanse of the "Gold Belt" of the valley and the mountains which have been called the "Switzerland of America" may be seen.
The overlook was built on an overstepped "hill" from natural taken from a nearby cut on America's International Highway, U.S. 93.
The first exhibit at the viewpoint was in three parts, carved out of the Big Fish River and located the white man called the Salmon River, and the Big Wood River, before long there Timber from these flatboats was used in constructing buildings in many of the Salmon River Canyon gold mining camps. Gutsie continued his boating on the Salmon River until the early 1920's.

Exhibit No. 4 tells of the Primitive area — that vast wilderness domain of more than 200,000 acres which is to be preserved "as God made it" — here our children and our children's children can learn through the generations.
Here, as a man rides his horse (no motor driven transportation is allowed along the quick meadow where a spring flows. And, if a man continues his ride past the Grand Falls, he will see Nature's "trail sign" — in a broad clearing on the ridge of an entire peak, the straight line of the blue sky above.

The fifth exhibit tells of Galena summit, named for the Galena lead ore discovered near the headwaters of Big Wood River in 1859.
During 1967 some 100,000 spring water, the overlook, stopped to view the scene of the country beyond, high above the road.

Salmon Park Offers Many Attractions

BURLEY — The Burley city swimming pool, which is 55 feet by 115 feet with viewing seats for people watching the swimmers, is located in Salmon Park on Park Avenue, just south of the Burley High School.

Just east of the large pool is a wading pool for the small children available free of charge six hours daily throughout the summer.

Last year 24,338 swimmers were recorded. Red Cross swimming lessons were taken by 794; taking part in private swimming lessons were 120 and the women's fitness swim classes totaled 110. A total of 61 attended four different classes for life saving and instructors' school. Several other special classes were held during the year when demand was made.

There are five patios in the park and each has a charcoal burner fireplace. Lights are available for evening use. Picnic tables to accommodate about 30 people are in each of the four patios which are all the same size.

The large patio is equipped with enough picnic tables to handle 20 people. Reservations for the use of the patios may be made at the city Service Building, 200 Park Ave.

Last year 229 groups made reservation for using the patios for parties ranging from 10 to 200 people per group.

Improvements at the park during the last year include the purchase and installation of a fountain light, planting of new rose bushes, and painting of patio woodwork and refitting picnic tables.

In the park are glider swings, merry-go-round, and a slide. There are also horseshoe pitching courts in the park located on the west side, near the large patio.

The city tennis courts join Salmon Park on the north. Last year two new complete courts were built and a drinking tap was installed and the tennis court area was fenced. Just east of the tennis courts is the baseball diamond.

Salmon Park is becoming one of the most used city parks during the summer because of many activities available at one site.

PATCHES OF SNOW cling to the rocky slopes of Mount Regan early in Spring as it towers above Sawtooth Lake in the Sawtooth Primitive Area, on the Challis National Forest.

The lake is well-known to fishermen throughout the area as one of the best overnight fishing spots. The lake is located west of Stanley. (U. S. Forest Service photo)

LOST TRAIL — A popular Forest recreation area center has been developed atop 7,000-foot Lost Trail Pass on the Idaho-Montana border served by U. S. Highway 93.

Lost Trail Pass Mobile Information Center is operated during the summer months for the convenience of the motoring public. Attendants in the specially constructed trailer station supply a variety of information from where to camp and picnic to interpretation of the historical features of the area.

A new sign at Lost Trail welcomes visitors to the scenic attractions of the area. Besides the information center, a picnic area nearby is available to the visitor. During 1966, 11,000 persons stopped at the information center and 21,000 were counted in the picnic area.

Breaks

SALMON — The Salmon River Breaks are the steep canyon walls of the Salmon River.

The tree-studded Breaks are colorful and picturesque as viewed from the jetboat on the river. But they are rugged, steep and rocky when you start up, and up, on foot.

The individual ruggedness of the Breaks offers special challenges for those who tackle them.

Inspect Boat Before Leaving

Make Most Of That 1967 Motor Trip

This year, millions of Americans will discover the Old World and the New during the summer vacation season. Over 300,000 travelers are expected to enjoy cruises during 1967, and nearly 600,000 students on their own passports for study, work or travel abroad. But motoring is still the favorite outdoor recreation for most Americans!

When you plan your summer vacation, consider these tips for travelers:

Obtain a travel guide to your vacation spot to check recommendations on hotels, motels and restaurants. The guide will help you budget your trip, and if you travel with children, will be a good source of information on recreation facilities and baby-sitting services.

If possible, write in advance for reservations to avoid disappointment. Leave a copy of your itinerary with a friend or family member. If you plan to visit friends, be sure to confirm the date and time of your arrival. The nicest advance "hello" to your hosts is a bouquet of fresh flowers. Perhaps the easiest, quickest way is to "wire" them. For example, any Florists' Transworld Delivery shop on your travel route can deliver cut flowers anywhere in the United States or Canada in advance of your visit. Florists suggest sending a summertime bouquet of mixed blossoms as a special thank-you for the friend or neighbor caring for the family pet or garden at home.

And friends and co-workers at home can give a special thrill to travelers by wiring flowers to greet them at a special spot on their itinerary. Everybody likes to be "missed"! And flowers express thoughts eloquently. When you pack for your vacation, plan your wardrobe around a single color scheme, easy to accessorize. The new synthetic fibers and crush-resistant knits are wise travel choices, and mix-and-match outfits will give you a series of changes without crowding your summer-full of family fun.

No matter how you travel, advance planning will add to your pleasure and memories of a summer-full of family fun.

Three Peaks Offer Boys Adventure

SHOSHONE—Sand, sagebrush and lava mixed with rockhounds and an occasional coyote, horned lizards and insects are combined to give Shoshone youths a sense of adventure with their annual visits to Three Peaks, a mile west of the city limits.

At night, the older boys add to the mysteries of the summer moonlight by visiting the place and returning to tell of the chirp of crickets and the buzz of mosquitoes.

The ragged Sawtooth range in the distance and stately trees stand guard along the edge of town. Three peaks are actually just a series of jagged lava rocks on the desert.

A bit of foliage may defy tradition from time to time and try to root on the peaks, but on Highway 20 near Arco where most of the time they are bare. Arrowheads are found now stretches of barren desolation resemble the surface of the moon.

With the deposit of this treasure.

Riding Club Offers Good Exercise

RUPERT — For families with interest in horseback riding, membership in a riding club can be a rewarding experience and provide some good exercise.

Typical of organized groups in the area is the Cavalier Riding Club, formed last year, and open to families for membership.

Agenda for the club includes regular drills, trail rides, special training courses and parties and socials during the winter months.

Every family member can be included in this sport, with many good 5-year-old riders in the group as well as some in their 50's and 60's.

Drills are divided into two groups, one for the adults and a second for the young people. Requirements for joining the club, which presently numbers about 65, are a horse, membership fee, and transportation for the horse to starting places for the various events. Membership is $5 per member or $10 per family per year.

Official insignia of the club are shirts, ties and saddle blankets in blue and white. The newly-organized group rode in the Oakley parade, the Burley fair parade and the Roping & Club parade last year. This year they also plan to appear in Rupert's July 4 parade and other local parades.

Drills are enjoyed every Friday night at the Burley arena, and have been a highlight of the contests following the drill sessions.

Every two weeks during the summer the club sponsors trail rides, usually about 15 to 20 miles into the mountains, caves, and other areas. The trail rides have already ridden to Devil's Corral near Blue Lakes and have explored the Eden caves.

A week's trip to Redfish Lake and the Sawtooth Mountains is planned for later in the summer.

The club also sponsored a training course on shoeing and care of horses last fall.

Club officers are Wayne Haywood, president; Dale Bowman, vice president; Donald Hayden, arena director; Albert Foy, trail adviser; Bill Harty, trail master; Jane Davis, children's drill master; Gena Gies, trail master; Jay Gifford, drill master; and Bob Gifford, arena master.

Other officers are Linda Gifford, treasurer; and Mrs. Don and Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Frazier.

A recent adventure of the club was a trail ride to Redfish Lake, a ride to the Kinema Butte, and a ride to Lake Cleveland as guests of the Quarter Horse Association.

New Booklet On Trolling Is Available

A new, 16-page booklet, "Lunker Lore," will show you how to catch more and bigger fish using proper outboard motor trolling techniques.

"Lunker Lore," published by Evinrude Motors, is a detailed study of motor trolling. It tells how and why this has become one of the most rewarding fishing techniques developed in recent years.

The fully illustrated booklet contains information on fishing with a plan; locating bigger fish; the balanced fishing rig; trolling speeds; and proper boat handling.

"Lunker Lore" also contains helpful hints on selecting the right equipment — rods, reels, line and lures.

Depth finders and fish locators can play an important role in motor trolling, so a chapter is devoted to these new electronic devices. You'll also find hints on fishing a strange lake and how weather can affect fishing success.

"Lunker Lore" is available by writing Evinrude Motors, Milwaukee, Wis., or from local Evinrude outboard dealers.

The key to backpacking is traveling light with the proper equipment. (U. S. Forest Service photos)

Secret To Backpacking Trip Lies In Traveling Light, Proper Equipment

Most backpackers agree that the secret to really enjoying hiking lies in traveling light with proper equipment.

For the Sawtooth National Forest area where many Magic Valley residents hike, one experienced backpacker suggests a down mummy bag with a light aluminum frame pack as the ideal outfit. The bag, pack and bag are the most important things to be considered on a hike.

Most backpackers also prefer to take some type of shelter, either the "instant" tent which is in the form of a tube, or a plastic sheet that can be set up as a lean-to or pup tent.

The number of combinations of possible makes of packs, boots, and bags is practically endless, and each is sure to be recommended by several experienced backpackers. Any good sporting goods store can recommend proper equipment. But, they all agree on one important point, travel light.

Since most of the weight of any pack comes from the food carried to sustain the hiker, several short-cuts and basic foods are suggested. A boon to the backpacker has been the popularity of "instant" foods, which usually fit excellently into any pack trip menu.

With careful planning, backpackers can get by with one or two half to two and a half pounds of food per person per day. Many basic dehydrated food items can be purchased at local supermarkets and several firms specialize in packaging foods for backpackers, though this can be quite expensive.

Backpacking menus must have a proper balance of proteins, carbohydrates and fats. Fish can be elusive so the menu should be complete without them. For a short weekend trip, fresh foods, or ordinary canned goods can be used, but there are several disadvantages. Many fresh foods won't keep on a hot weekend and cans are a bother to dispose of, presuming that the backpacker's appreciation of nature will prevent his littering. If cans are taken, they should be flattened and buried or packed out after use.

For longer hikes, dehydrated foods are a must, and simplicity is the key.

Companies catering to backpackers have developed one-dish meals such as beef and spaghetti, chicken and rice and beef and macaroni. At the grocery store, instant rice, instant potatoes, instant puddings and appetizing dried soups such as potato-leek, mushroom, vegetable and tomato-beef may be purchased. Beverages can include coffee, tea, instant cocoa, dried milk, bouillon cubes and powdered fruit drinks.

Bread is optional. Some durable cracker, or flat bread can be substituted. A slab of good cheese provides nutrition and durability and goes well with crackers.

Many experienced backpackers purchase tubes, like those used for toothpaste, for butter containers. These can also hold peanut butter, and cheese spread. Fill the tubes from the large open end and seal by rolling it up.

Dried fruit, besides being light and nutritious, provides an excellent "pocket candy" for the hiker to eat along the way.

Many experienced backpackers take along a slab of bacon, because it smells good in the morning, sizzles in a pan, and because the grease flavors fish caught along the way, and other food.

For long hikes, of more than a couple of days, many backpackers include vitamin supplements as a necessity.

Some of the more precise backpackers prefer to wrap each portion of each meal for each day separately in plastic bags, labeling each for easy preparation. Much of the food carried on a pack trip can be taken from the cardboard cartons and carried lightly in this way. The plastic bags will burn easily. Tin cans should be eliminated wherever possible.

Further information and maps may be obtained at the Sawtooth National Forest Service Office, Twin Falls.

Try Motor Trolling For Catching More Fish

There's only one guy worse than the one who says, "You should have been here last week," the fishing was great. He's the guy who is hauling in a string of lunkers while you're spending a futile afternoon in the hot sun.

Ever think that there must be a reason? Does this guy know something you don't? You bet he does! He follows a definite "fishing plan"; has a thorough knowledge of the fishing waters; uses correct motor trolling techniques; and owns the right equipment for effective motor trolling.

This systematic approach to catching more fish with your outboard motor is set out in a new publication, "Lunker Lore." The booklet is available through outboard dealers or by writing Evinrude Motors, Milwaukee, Wis. For the motorist, we'll summarize some of the "fishing know-how" it contains.

Before you can have a fishing plan, you have to know the lake upon which you plan to fish. This can be gained through first-hand experience, from topographical maps or by using one of several sonar devices that allow you to "see" the contours of the lake's bottom.

A fishing plan means you follow a definite pattern in your trolling. After locating a reef, you work your boat back and forth gradually moving from shallow to deeper water. This pattern allows you to locate the fish either in their feeding ground, their deep water "home" or en route to either.

The correct trolling technique is the one that works! That is, you must vary your technique to make catches. As a general rule, trolling speed should be faster in hot weather and slower in cool.

A relatively short (22 to 66 inches) and fairly stiff rod is recommended for fresh water trolling. It should be equipped with a medium capacity, 1-lb. wind reel with stir drag and non-reverse lever. Use a stiff monofilament line testing from 12-18 pounds.

With this fishing outfit, every movement of the lure is telegraphed to the fisherman. The experienced motor trolling fisherman can tell by the "feel" of the lure whether it is working a rocky, grassy, sandy or mud bottom.

Motor trolling lures, like the Bomber and Spooking, are designed to work the bottom. They have the remarkable ability to troll the bottom and become entangled with rocks.

If this brief summary has whetted your appetite to wet a line, pick up a copy of "Lunker Lore."

Should Keep Areas Clean

Population explosion, pollution, overcrowding, are terms we hear almost everyday in connection with our modern society. When we hear these terms most of us think of cities and towns. Unfortunately, much of our so called modern society is finding its way into our scenic mountain areas.

Beer cans, bottles, paper, rags, plastic bags, and a multitude of other items are being left behind by persons using these areas.

Attempts are made by people to bury cans, bottles, etc., but in shallow rocky soil, the effort is usually futile. Animals dig up the debris and scatter it over a wide area.

Many of our lakes and streams are used as a means of disposing of cans, bottles, and trash. The old adage "out of sight out of mind" seems to be the guiding factor here. If only a few persons did this, it would probably go unnoticed, with very little harm.

RIVER IS LONG
The Ganges River in India is 1,537 miles long.

Mobile Mattress

If you have a stationwagon, you can make a two-inch-thick latex foam rubber pad for the back that makes a fine mattress for camping trips.

Shape the foam rubber to fit, then cover in a washable vinyl. Kids can stretch out for a nap if they get tired during a trip, and two adults can sleep in comfort.

However, as more people become involved, the problem is compounded until corrective or enforcement action becomes necessary. In an effort to keep our backcountry areas clean, the National Forests in Eastern Idaho are enlisting the help of each and every user of these areas. Each person is asked to pack out or leave his unburnable trash at designated locations.

Recreationists benefit two-fold from this program: they maintain the natural beauty of the area and save taxpayers' money by eliminating the need to hire special crews to clean up these regions.

Bowmen Plan Full Summer Of Activities

RUPERT—A full and varied summer program has been planned for Archery enthusiasts by the Minidoka Bowmen, and opened with a Sunday shoot at the DeLo archery range on the Dewey Ranch.

Idaho and surrounding states clubs were part of an invitational shoot planned by the local club this spring. There is also wide interest in the barbs and flashlight shoot planned later in the summer.

A flashlight shoot places the light at the base of the target, spotlighting only the bullseye, and artists shoot at targets varying from 20 feet to 80 yards.

The annual cup shoot concludes with a potluck picnic and awarding of prizes for the biggest cup shot with bow and arrow. The event will be held on the Minidoka Dam, according to Charles Klingenberg, president of the local club.

The club championship shoot this summer will use stationary animal targets.

The Idaho State Bowhunters Jambooree will be hosted by the Minidoka club at Pomerelle ski area later this summer. The event is a series of target shooting and target archery, with prizes for the best target of cardboard or set up on an undermanned target, and the best target with string, and prizes to the high scorers.

The club camp at the Minidoka club at Pomerelle ski area is the first of a series of day sponsors think of novel targets for a unique shoot.

Each year the club sets up a silhouette of William Tell's head, topped with a real apple. Points are earned for hitting the apple and more points for setting an arrow in the head.

During the nine miles up Howell canyon the outdoorsmen find excellent camping through the length of the canyon. Fishing in adjacent streams and the breath-taking panoramic views from Mount Harrison is well worth the short drive.

Overnight camping facilities are available at Lake Cleveland. Family units for five, an eight-foot table, fireplace and drinking water are available.

Fishing is allowed at Lake Cleveland, but on boats or rafts of any kind are permitted on the lake.

When the Civilian Conservation corps camps were operated, the deer hunt is ushered in at the Fairview Sons Camp with another overnight stay, and the fall season and indoor shooting follows making this a year-round family sport.

The club presently numbers as members, men, women and children, and some of the women have been known to outshoot their husbands.

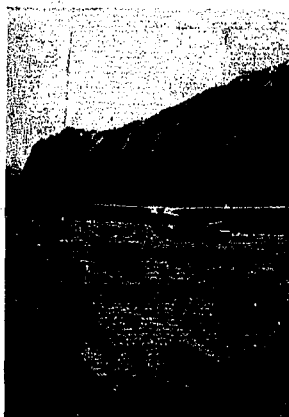

Other officers of the club, in addition to Klingenberg, are: Mansard Wall, vice president, and Mrs. Russell Dockstader, secretary.

The clock's workings and hands were used but a new face and case were made from mahogany, the hands were sprayed with copper and mosaic discs were placed to make the dial.

The Valley View area still has a few jobs available and interested persons should check with the Forest Service. Visitors are always welcome at our cabin and the camp is usually "perking" on our cookstove.

Thompson Flats and no new camping facilities are planned for this year.

Farther south from Lake Cleveland is found Independence Mountain, where the highest peak rises 10,550 feet. Here are located five high lakes. The best known Independence Lake may be reached only by hiking or riding horseback three miles from the old Boy Scout Camp.

Overnight campers must rough it in the open for there are no fireplaces or tables furnished by the Sawtooth National Forest. Fishing and the view both are excellent for those outdoorsmen who are able to rough it at Independence Lake.

Many picnics are held each summer in the area but they are the rough it in the open type.

Filer Couple's Cabin Has Franklin Stove And Early American Furniture

By MARJORIE LIERMAN

Time-News Correspondent
FILER—So this is the year you're going to build that mountain vacation home and already you're wondering what kind of furniture to put into it!

Or perhaps you want a home that is nearly finished, at least enough to live in, but more than you had planned and there isn't much money left for furniture.

Maybe you've had a vacation cabin for a number of years and would like to give it at least a room or two a "new look."

Whatever your problem, do finish your cabin be as much fun as building it was. Big or little, elegant or simple, the inside of your second home should reflect the people who live in it and their likes and hobbies.

Our summer home in the Valley View area of the Sawtooth Mountains was furnished with very little money but much enjoyment. It isn't completely finished and we hope it never will be as each year we look forward to additional improvements we plan to make.

My husband, Reuben Lierman, and I made some of our furniture, some are castoffs we have rejuvenated, and some are good usable pieces given us by friends. We find that sale grounds and junkyards can yield treasures at little prices and clearance sales at lumber yards are well worth attending.

Our painting, doors and windows, and many other items can be bought at less than half price. Much of our furniture was bought in small lots as such sales.

"Carefree Cabin" as its name implies, is devoted to leisurely living reminiscent of the 18th Century. For that reason we have furnished it with Victorian lighting fixtures, a Franklin stove, early American furniture, and simple plumbing fixtures, all designed to make us think we are living a hundred years ago.

The cabin itself is a five-room, two-story log house. We also built the necessary "little house in back," a combination woodshed and shower house which boasts a sleeping loft for an overflow of guests.

We built the woodshed large enough to accommodate logs for the fireplace and kitchen cooking stove, to store tools, to include a place for a wash stand and shower stall. A small cot and a cot are also in the shed.

The elaborate living room light fixture is made of five lamps ornamented with hanging lamps and a small matching lamp is placed on an end table by the couch. These were bought for several dollars at a "white elephant" sale several years ago. A black wrought-iron candle sconce hangs near the fireplace and two hanging sconces flank the large center ceiling beams. A very old kerosene lamp brought from Kansas, although not usable, has been fitted with a cloth shade and serves as a conversation piece. The three bedrooms also have lantern fixtures.

Brick from the old Maroon schoolhouse form the foundation for our Franklin stove fireplace. The corner of the brick placed halfway up the wall make a mantel which looks a few hundred years in this and the "little house."

Guests at "Carefree Cabin" are greeted at the Dutch door which we built of pine and finished with black hinges and knobs rescued from the junk pile. When half opened, the Dutch door is very convenient for bird watching, a favorite family sport.

Since working with wood is a hobby of ours, we have painted the cabin throughout, using a variety of selected woods. The kitchen walls and ceiling are both knotty pine, and we were fortunate in finding some choice form-stemmed pine woodsheds which we built the cupboards.

Three walls of the living room are of knotty pine and a fourth of mahogany. Mahogany paneling cut into two-foot squares and placed diagonally on the ceiling creates a giraffe effect.

The downstairs bedroom is of knotty pine and cherry and the two bedrooms upstairs are done in cherry and pine and their likes and hobbies.

Activity in the kitchen revolves around the squatty little cookstove upon which we can easily cook friends for four or 20. Good friends offered us the choice of three wood-burning cookstoves and we chose a green and black one because it fit in best with our color scheme. It has an old-time warming shelf and a small but efficient oven. We bring our collection of castron skillets on the brick chimney behind the stove.

An old trainman's lantern sprayed with bronze paint and wired for electricity serves as a kitchen ceiling fixture. Water from a mountain spring has been piped into the sink faucet. Any needed hot water must be heated in two teakettle on the stove.

Our only concessions to modern living are the electric refrigerator and electricity for lighting the rooms. However, all the fixtures are either authentic or reproductions of old time lanterns.

Guests at "Carefree Cabin" are greeted at the Dutch door which we built of pine and finished with black hinges and knobs rescued from the junk pile. When half opened, the Franklin stove is one of the few new things purchased for the cabin. Fires in it and the cookstove keep the house warm and comfortable even in cold weather. A neighbor at Valley View has placed an old-fashioned pot-bellied stove on a rock platform and contrived a chimney central heating unit. Stoves of this type are very easy to install, are congenial with Early American furniture and rank in popularity with the rock or brick fireplaces.

Meals are served at the pine table at the end of the kitchen. The table is a genuine antique, so we left the top in its natural state but the massive table legs and four end-dressed kitchen chairs were painted black.

After being painted, we applied gold leaf details to the backs of the chairs and they now have quite a jaunty look. Recently a member of our family retrieved four old chairs which were to be thrown away and these too will receive the black paint and decal treatment.

For the bar, we refinished two maple stools and have matching captain's chairs which also serve as occasional chairs. The living room has a green couch and two platform rockers, both used but good, and several old easy chairs which we have recovered in a provincial print.

Two maple cricket chairs rescued from the junk pile have been recovered and placed on each side of a small round table. Another "white elephant" buy. We made a floor-length round cover for the table and edged it with white fringe from an old bedspread.

The same print used on the cricket chairs is featured on all the downstairs curtains. Since our cabin has a cement floor, we've covered it with floor tile and laid down handmade braided rugs. Samplers, maple sconces, hammered brass pictures and plates decorate the walls. Hooks on the stairway wall hold our collection of mugs.

As antique collectors, we like to display some of our choicest finds which include an old zither, a sea captain's chest, an earthenware lion pot and numerous dishes. One bedstead contains an old spoon bed which came from Pennsylvania.

The first thing visitors usually notice is the unusual clock which is a hand-made clock made from a large outdoor electric clock which had been used outside a store. IN HAILEY

Air Marine Park, Burley; Has Fishing

BURLEY — Air Marine Park is about half a mile long, joins Snake River on the north, and is between the Burley Airport and Highway 30 on the east and west.

"Kids creek" winds through the park from the south to the Snake River and in the creek fishing is open for children age 13 and under only. The toddlers' pond is located just east of the Go-Kart track.

Some of the creek banks have been cleared for plain bank fishing while other sections of the creek still have willows and brush along the banks to test the skill of the young fisherman.

The kids fishing is a joint effort with the Fish and Game Department and the Cassia Rod and Gun Club. Last year two weeks of active trout fishing was available for the area young fishermen, with a total of $70 trout caught the first day.

Fresh spring water drains from the airport and winds its way to the east, flowing into Kids Creek and then onto Snake River. The spring water runs the year around.

Development of Air Marine Park has been under way since 1954. For those who like to go boat riding or water skiing there are two unloading boat docks within the park to the north on Snake River.

River Boat tours are available through the efforts of Tom's Marine, at the north end of Air Marine Park. Scenic tours of Snake River are taken by large or small groups. The Burley city recreation department assists when needed with the tours.

The Go-Kart track has approximately 400 yards of hard surface track complete with the 5 curves. The track is operated by the Air-Marine Karting Association and the Burley city recreation department.

For shooting fans, a day or night trap shooting range is located on the northwest corner of the park. Floodlights near the Cassia Rod and Gun Club building make ideal trap shooting at night.

The Burley Rifle and Pistol Club and our new range is located just south of the trap shooting facilities.

In cooperation of the Idaho State Police, Fish and Game Department, the Cassia Rod and Gun Club, and Cassia County schools, four-session courses for seventh grade Gun Safety and Conservation were held for 287 students. Students did their actual shooting at the Burley Rifle and Pistol Club range.

All of Air Marine Park is maintained by the Burley City Recreation Department, with Jack L. Keen, director.

Any fly line will handle better and last longer if done regularly.
This also applies to non-staking lines, some of which come with a cast line cleaner or dressing the manufacturer recommends.
Others you might not know harm bad good. Some substances will damage the line used on different floating surfaces.

Sun Valley Has New Program For Youngsters

SUN VALLEY—Every morning who has seen the sun rise on an alpine meadow, sniffed the aroma of bacon frying on the campfire, washed his face in the purity of a mountain stream or lake, and looked forward to a day on the trail has an edge on those who can't claim this experience.

The edge is another set of values, a different perspective on himself and his measurement of others. This quality stays with a boy and the man throughout his lifetime, whatever trail he follows.

You don't have to look far among leaders in any profession to find men who have enjoyed this search with nature.

This summer take your son or daughter to Sun Valley and he can have this experience.

As part of its "Young Summer" activities for boys and girls, a new program, "Sun Valley High Wilderness Camp," will offer backpacking trips into the Sawtooth primitive area.

While you are enjoying all the adult activities, which make Sun Valley one of the most unique all-around resorts in the country, they can become "High Wilderness Campers."

Sun Valley's location, at the gateway to Idaho's vast primitive area, provides the ideal place to headquarters for the program. The Sawtooth Mountains, the Pioneer Range, Copper Basin, the Boulders, the headwaters of the famous Salmon River (the River of No Return), with their myriad of high lakes and headwater streams, all add up to unmatched country for "High Wilderness Camping."

Trips will encompass as much of this country as possible by changing the area to be covered each week. One thing is sure, and that is the unlimited

Salmon

SALMON—Salmon is from the Latin word Salmo meaning "to leap."

True to their name—salmon migrate from the ocean, leaping their way through the rapids to spawn in the headwaters of the Salmon and other western rivers.

After spawning, adult salmon die. Young Salmon spend one to two years in fresh water before heading for the ocean to grow and mature.

Biological instinct leads mature chinook salmon to the stream of their birth and the cycle begins again.

Mountain Lakes Not Accessible

FAIRFIELD—There are quite a few high mountain lakes in the Camas County area. These will open with the general trout season on June 3 but will not be accessible until later in the summer as there is a heavy pack of snow in the mountains this spring.

So those who enjoy this kind of recreation should plan their trips for mid and late summer. Most of the lakes in this section are on the South Boise River north and west of the popular Big and Little Smokey drainages that are familiar to many. Access to the lakes can be made by horseback or on foot over steep trails.

Almost all of the high mountain lakes in the South Boise drainage have been planted with trout during the last few years through the use of a helicopter.

ELEVATION VARIES

High Water Expected For Opening Day

FAIRFIELD — The present outlook is for high water in the streams in Camas County on the opening day of fishing season. The late spring storms have added to the snowpack in the mountains and the warmer weather will cause the streams to be higher from the melting snow.

All of the streams in the area are well stocked with catchable sized trout and replantings are made during the summer months to provide good fishing during the season. The Fish and Game Department keeps a careful check on the streams and reservoirs in order to provide recreation for the many people who use the area.

If the weather turns warm the first part of June the conditions are that the reservoirs will be the better fishing until the streams are lower. With Magic, Morron and Camas reservoirs the angler can have his choice.

Christmas Tree Cutting Is Cassia's Top Family Outing

BURLEY — One of the fastest growing two-day recreation events in Cassia County is the annual Christmas tree cutting. One Christmas tree per family is the allotment by the Bureau of Land Management.

A truly family outing in the early part of December is looked forward to by family members from one year to the next.

A picnic lunch, or a lunch that can be cooked over a camp fire, some cook on the camp stoves, a thermos of hot chocolate for the children and hot coffee for mom and dad takes care of the meal.

The weather may be cold but that does not stop an outing for the family. Some years it has rained and still other years the snowflakes have been falling, all which seem to add to the excitement.

Rupert Boasts 14 Parks, Including City Square With Colorful Fountain

RUPERT — Looking for a pleasant afternoon surrounded with leafy shade trees and cool grass? It isn't necessary to go far, for the City of Rupert boasts 14 parks for sport, recreation and esthetic pleasures.

Chief park and best-known is the City Square which, with its colorful fountain in the middle, makes Rupert a unique city, featuring a built-in facility which many larger cities are presently attempting to achieve through downtown planning.

The present and far-reaching park development has been under the leadership of a park committee which presently comprises Larry Duff as chairman, and Clarence Birrer, Mrs. Earl Goode, Mrs. Clara Butchano and David Pflieger. Advisory members are Lloyd Knott and William Henschel.

One of the first developments for the fast-lifted park was installation of the fountain six or seven years ago. The dancing waters are displayed under colored lights from Easter until freezing is threatened. The water is in play from about 7:30 a.m. to 10:30 p.m. daily.

Rupert is believed to be the only town in the state, with the exception of Boise, to have a fountain in the park. Flower beds have been gradually added to the park beauty until presently there are about 200 geraniums, and 700 dozen peonies.

The present park is a considerable change from the one on which the committee started work less than 10 years ago, when a bandstand centered the area and sidewalks crisscrossed from the four corners and the four sides. The traffic across the park was lightened when the post office was moved from the southeast corner of the square and the diagonal walks were removed along with the bandstand. A few zinnias and a fence were the chief decorations in those days.

Residents have free access to the entire park presently, with the exception of the fountain flower beds, which are fenced off, chiefly to keep small children away from the water.

The park gets extensive use since it is located in the center of the business district, and mothers like to leave their children on the swings and merry-go-round while they do their shopping. Children like the arrangement, too. It is very popular with the transient laborers also.

Mr. Hough is assisted by two other maintenance men, Melvin Madson and George Giraud, and the three of them do all the upkeep for all 14 parks in the city. Another popular summer place is Neptune Park, featuring the municipal swimming pool and four picnic shelters and many tables.

This area is a popular place for family reunions, church and civic gatherings, as well as private family parties. Various shelters, which feature electric lights, water and fireplaces. The ample playground equip-

Greenhorn Good For Rockhounds

HAILEY — A short distance to the west and south of the Greenhorn Guard Station on the Sawtooth National Forest, is an area where rockhounds will be able to collect many colorful types of minerals.

Lots of clear white agate and crystals are within easy walking distance from the Greenhorn road. Specimens of green and green lace agate are found on the ridge top. Some very beautiful specimens of deep blue agate have been found. This blue color does not fade. A few pieces of pink lace agate have been found and are quite nice when polished.

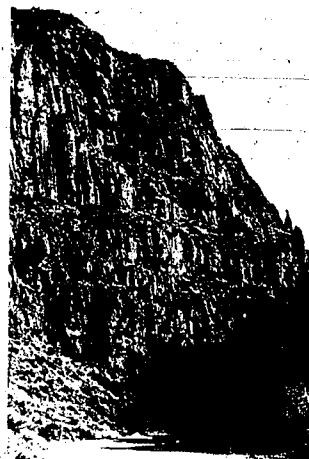

Rockhounds should have a shovel and an axe in their car during fire season.

Ticks are numerous during May and June. Drinking water is available at the Greenhorn Guard Station, along with primitive camping areas on Greenhorn Creek.

Greenhorn is reached by going five miles north of Hailey on Highway 93 and turning left on a smooth gravelled road. Automobiles may travel to the Greenhorn Station which is about three miles west of Highway 93.

ment is in constant use during the summer months by neighborhood children as well as for the socials that are held there. Also connected with this park are the tennis courts, and of special interest to youngsters is the tank memorial, which was installed in front of the swimming pool. Children can often be seen climbing over the armored tank and examining its workings. The memorial was a Javacee project.

A much-used little park, especially during July 4 week, is the depot park along the railroad tracks. The carnival is usually set up in the street beside this park, and its few picnic tables see constant use, and dined celebrators can be found resting on the cool grass and beneath the shade of the trees.

Minico High School students during the past year have erected a marquee on this park, where they announce coming school events for each month.

The Julian Clawson Memorial park makes beautiful use of a three-cornered area on Eighth Street and Scott Avenue near the Chester B. Brown High Co. and the Rupert LDS Ward. The park features a deep-well pump set in a cement memorial, and is erected in tribute to Julian Clawson, who is credited with discovering the underground water source and drilling the first deep-well on the Northside project.

Flower plantings are used at the tank memorial, at the Clawson memorial and on the City Square and the remaining 11 parks feature grass, shrubs, trees and some have picnic facilities.

Other parks are a second depot park, parks on both sides of the canal along the 11th and 12th streets, where barracks buildings were once located, there is a half-mile park on K Street, just before crossing the canal at the hospital, with the south end of this area developed by the Rupert Garage and donated to the city. Rifle Club Has Erected Own Building

RUPERT—While a rifle and pistol club has been in evidence in Rupert since the close of World War I, the present Rupert Rifle and Pistol Club, Junior Division, Inc., was organized in 1957.

Starting from scratch the diligent members have built an excellent clubhouse with a kitchen, not to mention a 50 by 100 foot building.

Footings for the structure were poured in 1952, actual construction was begun in 1955 and the mortgage was blown out of a cannon in ceremonies.

The building represented a supreme effort by the members, who started out with $500 in their treasury. Among other accomplishments, the club house was built of lumber which the members made themselves from trees which they went into the mountains and cut.

Membership is open to all interested shooters and presently numbers 25. The club is affiliated with the National Rifle Association.

The Junior group also sponsors a junior club with Ralph Feltwell as the marksmanship instructor. The Junior members shoot weekly during school months and participate in numerous tournaments throughout the Magic Valley.

The club house and standard 50-foot range are located at 353 South 100 East, with both indoor and outdoor ranges.

Other groups who view the club house are the Minidoka Bowmen, and the Snake River Trail Riders also hold meetings there.

The club meets every Tuesday night for inter-club competition, and the heavy season is during the winter. Harold Haskins is the leading pistol shooter in the club and holds first place in the Magic Valley League. Walt Charles, the club secretary, is the leading rifle shooter.

Martin O'Donnell has been president of the Rupert group for two years, and acted as secretary for 11 years prior to that. He stressed that the aim of the NRA is to promote marksmanship and safe gun handling.

Several Junior members who have since served in the Armed Forces have praised the preliminary training which they received in firearms through their club membership. This training "may someday save a life," O'Donnell noted.

The Junior club stresses proficiency for all shooters, with less emphasis on championship for any individual.

The club participates in the Magic Valley League during the winter.

SNOW-FILLED CREVICES scar the side of this rugged White Cloud peak at the headwaters of Snake Creek on the Challis National Forest. With more and more sportsmen in the area, littering has become an increasing problem. (U.S. Forest Service photo)

"Litterbug" Has Hit White Clouds Area

The White Cloud Mountains, a beautiful remnant of the country with many beautiful lakes and towering white mountains, has become known to many sportsmen and recreation seekers.

As the area is used by more people, the problem of the "litterbug" has arisen. Empty tin cans, gas cans used for motor vehicles, and other debris have been scattered along the trails and around the beautiful lakes. During the summer of 1966, the Forest Service embarked upon a cleanup program for the White Clouds.

The Forest Service crews picked up and sacked the debris left by recreation users and packed it into by pack stock.

The Sierra Club also helped in this campaign. Thirty-five members spent 10 days back packing to the various lakes picking up the debris and placing it in sacks. They paid a commercial packer, Ted Williams of Stanley Basin, to pack the debris to the end of the road. This amounted to five large pickup loads of debris and other miscellaneous items.

The Forest Service has placed signs at the entrances of the area, asking people to pick up their tin cans and any other debris that cannot be burned. The area is so rocky and the soil so thin that burying is a waste of time, as animals dig it up.

If a person is able to pack in a full can, he is certainly able to pack it out after it has been emptied, mashed together, and made into a small package. If this debris is not packed out, the beautiful White Cloud country will soon become a dump ground.

Users of the White Cloud area are asked to please pack out their unusable debris. The Forest Service will greatly appreciate it if all users of this area will cooperate in this small task. It will save a great many tax dollars.

As a preparation, nearly everyone has a "favorite" recipe, but nothing beats the old tried and true method of rolling the slightly moist fish in a mixture of flour and breadcrumbs, then pan frying over an open fire.

Caution should be exercised to make sure the fish, while cooked adequately, still is not overcooked. It may be served with a few drops of lemon juice and salt and pepper, or a mild fish sauce.

Sublett Is Good Cassia Fishing Spot

BURLEY—The Sublett reservoir, located about 15 miles east of Malta, is one of the best known fishing places in eastern Cassia County.

A good gravelled road from Malta to the community of Sublett leads through large dry farm ranches. The reservoir is filled with water from Sublett Creek and Lakefork Creek.

Several years ago the Fish and Game Department treated the reservoir, clearing it of trash fish. Since that time the Sublett reservoir has been well stocked with trout.

There are no motor-powered boats of any kind allowed on the waters of the reservoir. A few campfires are available in the Sublett area.

From the Sublett reservoir one may travel over the top of the mountain, through Hagar canyon, to Raby River, located on Interstate highway 20, a distance of about 25 miles.

Scholar Park Offers Family Facilities

BURLEY—For families wishing to combine cooking out and a picnic along with fishing, the place to go is Scholar Park.

The park is located at the side of Highway 30N east of Burley with the Snake River for a boundary to the east and the Burley Golf Course adjoining the south.

The first development of the park was started in 1955 with the Burley Jaycees clearing the land and sowing grass. After the grass was growing the Jaycees started building cinder-block fireplaces.

Presently there are a total of five fireplaces for the enjoyment of the public, all of which were built by volunteer workers.

There are two eight-foot picnic tables available for each fireplace. Drinking water has been piped to the park and modern restrooms have been built.

Fishing from the banks of the Snake River on the east side of Scholar Park is available for fishermen of all ages.

For the last five years the Burley City Parks department has maintained Scholar Park. During the last year employees have repainted all the picnic tables and re-seeded worn grass areas of the park.

FLOWER NAMES COUNTY FAIRFIELD—Cassia County received its name from the Camas flower, blue and thickly distributed in the meadows suggesting an illusion of shimmering lakes.

Users of the White Cloud area are asked to please pack out their unusable debris. The Forest Service will greatly appreciate it if all users of this area will cooperate in this small task. It will save a great many tax dollars.

HAILEY—Before the beginning of time, according to an old Indian legend, the god of the mountains sent to Earth, to watch over their sisters, the remnants of his life, where he could be free.

Coming to this lonesome land was that he was born into slavery. Leaving his native Southland, he wandered until he found the place he wanted to spend the remainder of his life, where he could be free.

He was not a large man in stature, but was large in thought and deed. Those who knew him respected and admired him. He has, perhaps, more points of interest in the area where he lived named after him than any other resident.

There is Washington Lake, Washington Peak, Washington Basin and Washington Creek. And there is Blackfoot Peak. Those who knew him best, perhaps, were residents of the Sawtooth Valley. Ted Williams remembers him visiting with his father, Dave Williams, when he was a boy. Sandy Brooks remembers having seen him.

Dr. Robert H. Wright, Hailey, who has ministered to the sick and injured from Stanley Basin to Shoshone since the days when this vast area was nearly all one country, is believed to have known him perhaps as well as anyone.

Dr. Wright recalls that each time Blackman brought in a load of ore to ship he would come to his office for advice and receive a physical checkup. He also recalls that he and Mrs. Wright visited him on one occasion at his cabin.

How he first made his way into the White Clouds, where he built his log cabin, was never known. Perhaps he traveled one of the Sawtooth Valley trails up South of July Creek or the Pole Creek-Germania Creek route.

He could have traveled far. Off to the south, Hyndman, in the Pioneer range, reaches an altitude of 12,078 feet, and Ryan in the Boulder range, stretched to 11,900 feet, here Glassford, at 11,500 feet, reaches upward almost as high as his sister peak.

Composed of a sedimentary formation of limestone, quartzite, sand stone and silt stone, no plant or animal finds livelike in her terrain.

From all the trails of the "high country" the majestic beauty of the White Clouds may be seen.

It is perhaps ironic that a man by the name of George Washington Blackman, whose skin was also black, should have chosen to make his home in the White Clouds.

As silent as the mountains among which he chose to live, the story of Blackman will never be known. From those few persons who ever knew him at all, the story of his life before other north, where trails leave the main Salmon River to climb log cabins still stands, it is still rough. Warm Springs and Slake Creeks. Perhaps he found his way through the East Fork of the Salmon River, with the maneuver it over the Pole main access up Big and Little Boulder and Germania Creeks.

THE THREE TETONS tower above ranch lands in the vicinity of Jackson, Wyo. Here tourists stop for close view of the scenic mountain range. Traces of snow grace the upper ridges of the 13,000-foot high mountains even in mid-summer. Tourists pass through en route to Yellowstone National Park. (Times-News photo by Bonnie Baird Jones)

Yellowstone Enters 95th Season; Has Largest Collection Of Thermal Wonders

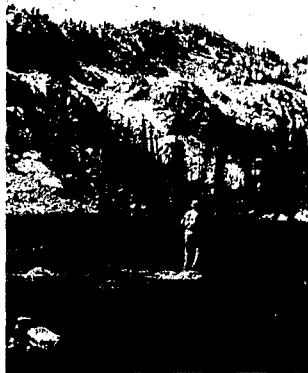

YELLOWSTONE NATIONAL PARK — Yellowstone is a national park that seems to have everything for everyone. It has the world's largest collection of thermal wonders. It is the fountainhead of trout fishing water. Wild flowers grow abundantly in the meadows. And only Yellowstone has that grand and glorious phenomenon called Old Faithful Geyser! The superlatives could go on and on. These 274 million acres of Rocky Mountain forests that comprise Yellowstone National Park offer the visitor something new — and thrilling — at about every turn of the road. It is truly a world apart!

Yellowstone has opened its gates for Yellowstone's 95th tour season. Every American citizenized by the earth's inner heat close to the surface, combined with an amply supply of underground water. Each of these thermal areas is uniquely different.

Sky-high Yellowstone Lake sprawls near the crest of the Continental Divide. Near the lake's outlet is famous Fishing Hole where anglers from 8 to 12 miles away come to fish for trout.

Yellowstone is sliced by the spectacular Yellowstone Canyon, a 1,200-foot deep gorge glistening with iridescent colors. Two gigantic waterfalls tumble over the canyon walls. Steam, hissing, spouting geysers are numerous. Old Faithful is just one of many. The park's six major thermal areas are crescent-shaped, every American citizenized by the earth's inner heat

ANOTHER MOUNTAIN LAKE that offers good fishing to the person willing to hike or ride into the Sawtooth National Forest in Rosa Lake No. 2. Nothing can beat frying your own catch over the open fire, knowing you are miles away from the nearest highway. (U.S. Forest Service photo)

Methodist Sawtooth Camp Provides Sessions For All

BURLEY — Typical of many church camps throughout Magic Valley is Camp Sawtooth, owned by the Idaho Conference of the Methodist Church and located 23 miles north of Fairfield on the South Fork of the Boise River.

Youth groups long have enjoyed creative fellowship and worship experiences available in an outdoor setting, but it is only in recent years that the advantages of outdoor living have been utilized by the various churches for younger children as well as adults.

Those who have attended sessions at Camp Sawtooth can attest to the inspiration of an early morning watch or an evening campfire service. Such experiences often are the mountain top events in the lives of the campers.

Land for Camp Sawtooth was purchased in 1919 from Jack Byram, Gooding, with the original purchase being 49 acres on the northern margin of his 1,152 acres. Half of the cash price of $4,000 was contributed by the late M. H. King, a local businessman and prominent Methodist layman.

The site is bounded by forest reserve lands on three sides and lies only 18 miles by pack trail from Alturas Lake on the east side of the Sawtooth divide.

Youth camps were begun in the summer of 1919 and for the first years it was all rugged living, with only tents to cook, eat and sleep in.

The young people came home with enthusiastic reports of the outdoor life, but mothers were less enthusiastic as they washed and scrubbed, while fathers looked with concern at the narrow, winding mountain roads.

The missing among the Magic Valley Methodist congregations about the developing of a permanent camp in a wild, isolated location was debated for several years. However, the decision was settled when the Magic Valley Methodist Men's Club organized in 1920, assuming the camp development as the major project.

Volunteer work crews were organized, the work and money were provided by interested laymen. Members worked weekends and vacations for several years and the camp grew and additional improvements were made.

During 1955-57 Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Chambers were camp managers and during this time Chambers built the manager's cabin. Mrs. Chambers was a counselor for several years beginning with the first camp in 1919.

In 1960 the forest service road from Fairfield over Couch summit was rebuilt, removing many sharp curves and adding better drainage. Many of the sharp curves on the Fleck summit grade have been widened.

The objections to the completion of 13 years ago now are largely eliminated by the road improvements, and with completion of the Sun Valley highway from Fairfield to Mountain Home the site will be even more accessible.

As the camp becomes more accessible recreation around the camp has greatly increased. Dip and Little Smoky creeks and the south fork of the Boise River are popular fishing streams.

A few years ago the Magic Valley Methodist Men became concerned that the primitive type camp might some day become hedged in by commercial developments.

So an additional 80 acres of land was purchased from Mr. Byram and sufficient funds to pay for it were presented to the annual conference in 1962. Presently the camp site includes 129 acres.

The camp has a modern well-equipped lodge, with a kitchen adequate to feed any size group and a dining room which can serve 100 campers at one time.

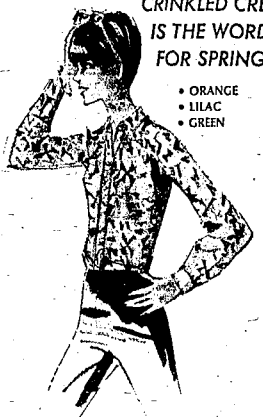

MAIN LODGE at Camp Sawtooth, owned by the Idaho Conference of the Methodist church, features kitchen, dining facilities and a chapel with memorial fireplace. The camp is situated 23 miles north of Fairfield on the South Fork of the Boise River. Frank Beer, Jerome, will be camp manager this year. The staff this year will include leaders of several denominations under the direction of the Idaho Council of Churches, with Rev. Charles Gill as chairman.

TRAIL BIKE ENTHUSIASTS have found new enjoyment in cycling to high mountain lakes and streams, hitherto inaccessible to families because of rugged terrain. Desert May Look Barren But Is Not SHOSHONE—The desert surrounding so much of this area often appears barren, suitable only for sagebrush, popovers and jackrabbits. Actually, it is a place of incomparable beauty. With the warmer weather and spring rains, the desert is blooming. This is the time to see it.

Hidden under the overhanging branches of sage in the spring are blooms of all description. Even the farmer often fails to catch the beauty of nature as did his predecessors as they grubbed the sagebrush. City residents ride through the remaining desert areas along good roads in air-conditioned automobiles, usually oblivious to the hidden beauty.

Lincoln County is rich with such beauty spots and country residents invite visitors to take a look around. Before paring the sage to find these spots of fragrance and beauty, take a look at the sage itself. Given moisture by the spring, the silver sheen turns a healthy green.

The crushed leaves give off a pungent odor that, once smelled, lingers on. From all that has been written, it would appear more people become homesick for the West because of the smell of sage, or lack of it, than for any other reason.

Growing taller than sage are chokecherry and current bushes. Like the sharp odor of the sage, chokecherry blossoms have a strong but not unpleasant smell.

Below the sage is grass which sheep love to eat. Mingling with the grass are cactus, dog-toothed violets, buttercups, shooting stars, false dandelions, hawk's beard, larkspur, wild onions, sego lilies and death camas. All contribute to the reward of a visit to the desert.
